

Moratorium Proves U.S. Divided On War

Editorial

The dissenters finally had their day. Interestingly enough, it is much the same group that has dissented on almost any issue today. And, interestingly enough, they have dissented with very few facts, but a considerable amount of emotion.

Although Lyndon Johnson was an anathema to most of my political views, I believe he was sincere in his statements and attempts to extricate us from Vietnam. I also believe that Richard Nixon (with whom I also do not agree politically in many instances) has vigorously attempted to extricate us from this unsavory war.

We are in this war because many of the organizers of these dissenters and cry babies committed us to world responsibility over 20 years ago with a program called the Marshall plan. And from that program came ensuing programs that committed us more deeply to economic, military and political aid in almost every corner of the world.

With this kind of responsibility comes risk and we certainly have taken our risks over the past several years.

Literally, millions of people in Southeast Asia depend upon us not only for economic aid, but also for protection. A precipitous withdrawal can only commit thousands of them to certain death and millions of others to misery the likes of which few Americans have ever experienced.

There isn't any question that thousands of those who marched were the innocents duped by a small group who would like to see this country destroyed under any circumstances. And I think, it is about time that Americans, young and old, begin to recognize this fact.

Although the turnout was small as compared to our total population, it nevertheless was damaging to any negotiations or plans that this government has for an orderly withdrawal.

The lyrics of a popular tune today, in a way, sums up the reasons for American plight today. It goes like this:

"We laugh, we cry, we live, we die.
"And when we're gone, the world goes on.
"We love, we hate, we learn too late.
"How small we are, how little we know.
"We hear, we touch, we talk too much.
"Of things we have no knowledge.
"We see, we feel, yet can't conceal.
"How small we are, how little we know.
"See how the time goes swiftly by.
"We don't know how, we don't know why.
"We reach so high and fall so low.
"The more we learn the less we know.
"Too soon the time to go will come.
"Too late the will to carry on.
"And so we leave too much undone.

Ontonagon Recalls Loss Of 8 'Sons'

ONTONAGON (AP) — Moratorium Day passed quietly in Ontonagon County, which claims its eight sons to die in Vietnam constitute a higher percentage of its young manhood than any other county's losses.

Flags At Full Staff
Flags flew at full staff at half or more of the businesses along main street, as the Lake of the Clouds Port of the Veterans of Foreign Wars had suggested as a show of support for the Nixon Administration's Vietnam policies.

At Ontonagon's Methodist Church, Mrs. David Archibald and two other members of her Ontonagon County Nonpartisan Peace Group met in the basement for a "letter writing bee" and to show a movie, "In Vietnam."

Police Break Up 2-Duck Romance

YPSILANTI (AP) — Washtenaw County sheriff's deputies quickly solved a ducking reported Tuesday by the Washtenaw Country Club. The motive, of all things, turned out to have been sex.

The club complained a woman had stopped her car and grabbed a duck off its pond.

The car was traced through its license number to its woman owner in a nearby apartment complex.

She explained, deputies said, she didn't steal the duck, "just borrowed it for a while" to take her with ducks. It also was a matter of a cryptogram which was deciphered and said: "I like killing people because it is so much fun. It is more fun than killing wild game in the forest because man is the most dangerous animal of all."

55,000 In Michigan Take Part In Protest

By The Associated Press
More than 55,000 demonstrators marched, rallied and spoke out against the Vietnam war in cities throughout Michigan Wednesday in a generally orderly Moratorium Day protest.

The day's largest rally was also its last, as an estimated 22,000 persons gathered in Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor to hear U.S. Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and longtime radical Thomas Hayden speak against the war.

38 Persons Arrested
One of the few demonstration-connected incidents of trouble during the day occurred in Detroit, where about 38 persons—mostly juveniles—were arrested during a march and rally which drew some 10,000 persons to Kennedy Square.

Charges against those arrested ranged from inciting to riot to improper display of the American flag.

Three-Mile March
Meanwhile, in East Lansing, another rally of about 5,000

Michigan State University students was followed by a three-mile march to the State Capitol. Hart told the Ann Arbor crowd, "those who feel we do a disservice to our country will eventually acknowledge that they should have been here."

Hart, who has been a leader of the Senate fight to cut military spending, called for an immediate ceasefire in Vietnam and a fixed schedule for withdrawal of the more than 500,000 American troops there.

During the rally in Ann Arbor, an unidentified man walked up to the speakers rostrum and spat at Hayden, 28, one of the eight defendants in the Chicago conspiracy trial.

Under Surveillance
Hayden, editor of the Michigan Daily in 1961 when he helped found Students for a Democratic Society in Port Huron, said he didn't react to the incident because "I am under surveillance. I must stand here because there are FBI officers ready to revoke my bond during the moratorium."

In Detroit, there were several incidents of shattered store windows and some minor scuffling broke out when members of Breakthrough, a militant anti-Communist group, staged a counter demonstration in Kennedy Square.

Police On Alert

Detroit police were placed on tactical alert after a window-breaking incident at a downtown sporting goods store. The alert was lifted five hours later. Some 2,000 Michigan National Guardsmen also were mobilized.

U.S. Casualty Count For War Now 39,969

SAIGON (AP) — The total of American battlefield deaths in Vietnam last week remained near the lowest levels of the past three years, and enemy losses fell to their lowest point in a year. But South Vietnamese casualties climbed sharply.

The allied commands reported 33 Americans, 384 troops of the Saigon government and 1,087 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed in action. Another 573 Americans and 1,000 South Vietnamese troops were reported wounded.

It was the third successive week that the total of American dead was less than 100. The total the week before was 64, the lowest in nearly three years, while government casualties that week were 300 killed and 681 wounded.

The weekly casualty reports reflected a trend in the past 3½ months of generally decreasing American battlefield deaths, while the total of South Vietnamese dead has outnumbered the Americans each week for the past five months.

U.S. spokesmen said this shows that South Vietnamese regulars and militiamen are taking over more of the fighting. "The South Vietnamese are generally getting into the act," said one officer. "They are pursuing the enemy and taking on a good bit of the fighting."

The weekly casualty report raised the reported total of American battlefield deaths to 39,969 since Jan. 1961, and the total wounded to 254,847. The enemy dead reported in that period total 500,000.

Weekend Killer Baffles Police

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I like killing people," boasts a weekend killer who calls himself Zodiac and numbers five San Francisco Bay area persons among his victims.

Marvin Lee, city chief of detectives, said Wednesday the handwriting on a letter acknowledging the killing of a San Francisco taxi driver appears identical to that in notes telling of four other slayings.

In each case the letters from the "Zodiac killer" have gone to newspapers and all have been marked with a crossed circle symbol like a rifle sight.

The latest started: "This is Zodiac speaking. I am the murderer of the taxi driver over by Washington St. and Maple St. last night, to prove this here is a blood stained piece of shit. I am the same man who did in the people in the North Bay area."

The enclosed piece of gray and white striped shirting matched the shirt of the victim, Paul Stone, 28, fatally shot in his car Saturday night.

Among earlier messages, sent to three different newspapers, were portions of a cryptogram which when deciphered said: "I like killing people because it is so much fun. It is more fun than killing wild game in the forest because man is the most dangerous animal of all."

Drifter Held In Murder Of U.P. Trooper

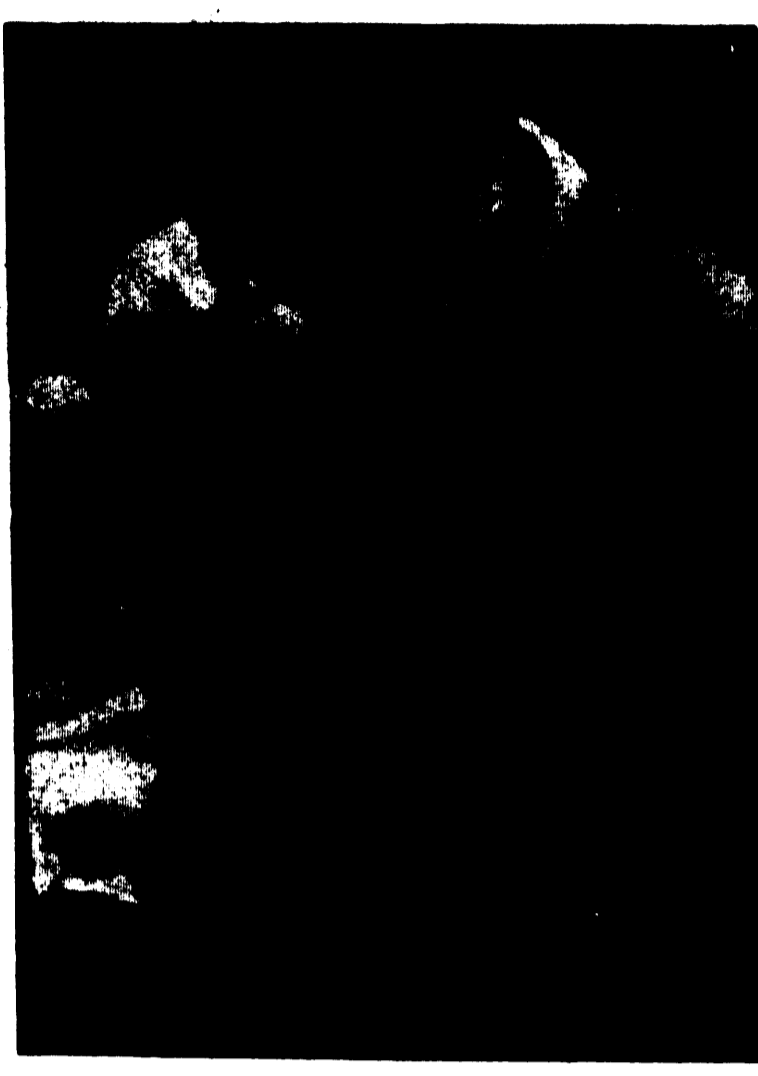

DETROIT (AP) — A 35-year-old man, described as a drifter, has been charged with murdering Carl Lindberg, a young State Trooper who was shot to death last May.

Charges were James C. Payne, a plea of innocent was entered for Payne when he stood mute Wednesday at his arraignment on the first-degree murder charge in Detroit Recorder's Court.

Lindberg, a native of Iron Mountain in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, was killed May 26 when he attempted to stop a robbery by two men of another tenant at his Detroit apartment building.

Charged previously in the slaying was William Dupuis, 40, Detroit, who is scheduled for trial Jan. 7.

Payne was arrested Sunday by State Police who acted on a tip that he would be in Detroit. He was initially held on a parole violation charge which grew out of a conviction in Lansing of armed robbery.

Mass Participation Hailed By Sam Brown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Moratorium was all its designers had hoped it to be, it was the fulfillment of a dream, and yet the man who speaks for Richard Nixon said:

"I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

By the thousands, they had ringed the White House with their candlelight, silently and peacefully demanding an end right now to the war that had killed nearly 40,000 of their contemporaries.

Support Noticeable
And Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, said amicably:

"It's also true and clear to the President that a vast majority of the American people are supporting his policy."

Jubilant, 26-year-old Sam Brown, who had conceived Vietnam Moratorium Day in the first place, said, "If there's no change in the Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond, there will be a second moratorium in November."

But after the marchers had gone home, Herb Klein said:

"If the President surrenders himself to the point where he responds to demonstrations, then he's not the President the people elected."

No Assessment
It is too early to assess the true significance of the unprecedented moratorium that brought hundreds of thousands of Americans out against the war—perhaps, as Sam Brown said, "giving hope to the people that they can work for change within the democratic system... without violence."

It is equally clear that many who had condemned the moratorium from the beginning misjudged their people when they prophesied that such a massive, widespread outpouring of feeling could only result in violence. There was no serious violence on Wednesday, the 15th of October—none, at least, much more significant than a brief scuffle in front of the White House during the cool fall afternoon.

The young people even returned wearily to the Washington Monument grounds late at night to police the rubble 35,000 souls had left.

Youngest-First Draft Is Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee that has shown little enthusiasm for President Nixon's lottery draft plan has indicated it will back the administration's idea of calling up 19-year-olds first.

Members of the special Armed Services subcommittee would give no details before sending recommendations on the lottery proposal to the full committee today.

But one source told a newsman, "You can quote the first paragraph of the President's list of priorities if you want to."

Nixon's first item called for a youngest-first draft call order "so that a young man would become less vulnerable rather than more vulnerable to the draft as he grows older."

Opponents of the lottery idea said Nixon already could carry out a youngest-first system without new legislation.

During five days of hearings, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey told the subcommittee the lottery would be the fairest system.

President Sticking By Washington Guns

By The Associated Press
With parades, rallies, candlelight processions and church services, hundreds of thousands of Americans joined in the largest antiwar protest in America's history. Supporters of American policy on Vietnam also demonstrated publicly.

Every state had some form of protest Wednesday and more than one million people, most of them young, may have participated. Opponents of the Vietnam Moratorium Day displayed the American flag and drove with headlights on.

Few Disorders
There were isolated reports of disorders amid the many activities centered on the moratorium slogan: "Bring home the troops. All the troops. Now!" Many protests included reading the names of war dead.

When it was over, a spokesman for President Nixon said in Washington, "I don't think the President can be affected by a mass demonstration of any kind."

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of communications, said Wednesday night, "It's also true and clear to the President that a vast majority of the American people are supporting his policy."

New Protests Likely

But a coordinator of the moratorium, Sam Brown, said in Washington, "If there is no change in Vietnam policy, if the President does not respond, there will be a second moratorium."

Leaders of the protest said they would continue "until the boys come home," with two days of demonstrations next month, three in December, four in January.

The large Eastern cities, traditionally the center of antiwar activity, had the largest turnouts. Boston police estimated 80,000 persons gathered on the Common, while 22,000 assembled at the Washington Monument and New York City had three rallies of more than 10,000 each.

But the scope of the moratorium was reflected across the nation. For example, in Iowa about 11,000 persons protested in various locations; in the State of Washington, an estimated 20,000 took part; in Arkansas, about 4,000 rallied in Little Rock.

Demonstrations Abroad
Americans abroad and foreign students demonstrated in London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Vienna, Tokyo, Dublin, Copenhagen and Bogota, Columbia. About 15 infantrymen fighting in South Vietnam wore black armbands to show their support for the protest.

Honest Talks Asked
Alaska Gov. Keith Miller told a high school audience, "I can honestly discuss our differences of opinion in the open here at home, then our chances to achieve an honorable settlement of the Vietnam war will be greatly enhanced."

Miller said he supported President Nixon's Vietnam policies but thought the moratorium "demonstrates the greatness of America."

The antiwar activity even extended to the World Series in New York, where the Mets beat the Baltimore Orioles after a dispute on whether the flag should be flown at full-staff or half-staff.

Flags At Half Staff

Mayor John V. Lindsay had ordered flags on all city buildings set at half-staff and City Hall draped in purple bunting to commemorate America's Vietnam war casualties.

Shen Stadium, the site of the game, is owned by the city. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he would comply with the mayor's request, but the military honor guard refused to participate if the flag were not displayed at the top of the pole, and Lindsay and Kuhn relented.

3 Astronauts Visit With Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI congratulated and blessed the Apollo 11 astronauts today and said he hoped their trip to the moon would lead men to see more of God's "good creation."

The 72-year-old pontiff received astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins in a half-hour private audience with what he called "the greatest joy in our heart."

He expressed the hope that with the knowledge gained from space exploration, "men may more and more be drawn together as (God's) children in fraternal love, in peace and prayer."

He praised the astronauts' bravery and said that through their "intrepid adventure man has taken another step toward knowing more of the universe."

He told the Apollo 11 commander, "in your words, Mr. Armstrong, one giant leap for mankind."

Later, Armstrong drew applause at the pontiff's world synod of bishops, when he said, "As we traveled between planets, I was profoundly impressed by the best of God's artwork."

He had been asked by a cardinal how the astronauts' personal relationships with God had been affected by their mission.

Decision Likely In Kennedy Case

BOSTON (AP) — Five Massachusetts Supreme Court justices have had an unscheduled consultation, leading to speculation that there would be a quick decision on a proposed inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

The body of Miss Kopechne, 28, was found in Sea. Edward M. Kennedy's car in a tidal pond on Cheppaquidick Island July 19.

Attorneys for the senator and nine other persons involved in the case asked the Supreme Court last week to rule that an inquest should be closed to the public and that attorneys should be permitted to cross-examine witnesses.

Normally the justices consult on pending cases on the last Tuesday of the month, which would be Oct. 21. A court source said an unscheduled consultation was held Wednesday. He would neither confirm nor deny that it concerned the pending Kennedy and his associates.

2 Cosmonauts Return 'Home'

MOSCOW (AP)—Soyuz 6 and the two cosmonauts aboard it returned safely to earth today after testing several types of experimental welding techniques in space. Radio Moscow announced.

The announcement said the first of the three spacecraft sent up a last weekend made a soft landing in a "preset area" at 12:32 p.m.—5:32 a.m. EDT—100 miles northwest of Karaganda.

The two cosmonauts "feel fine," the announcement said.

The return to earth of Soyuz 6 left two manned spacecrafts and five cosmonauts still in orbit.

The wedding experiment was the chief business announced so far for the troika flight. With it the Soviet spacemen sought to determine the best method of putting together the permanent space stations which the Soviets plan to assemble.

Early in the mass flight there had been speculation that two of the Soyuz spacecrafts would be joined together and left in orbit to become the world's first space platform. But prospects for this declined as the flight progressed, and the return of Soyuz 6 seemed a clear indication that construction of the space platform will wait for another flight.

The mission of Soyuz 6 has been successfully completed, Moscow Radio said.

The announcer reported that cosmonauts Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubasov were met by rescue teams as soon as they landed.

There was no indication when Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 would return to earth.

Soyuz 6 blasted off last Saturday at 2:10 p.m. Moscow time. The flight lasted 4 days, 22 hours and 42 minutes.

The spacecraft landed on the steppes of Kazakhstan about 340 miles from the launch site at Baikonur.

Leaders of the protest said they would continue "until the boys come home," with two days of demonstrations next month, three in December, four in January.

The large Eastern cities, traditionally the center of antiwar activity, had the largest turnouts. Boston police estimated 90,000 persons gathered on the Common, while 22,000 assembled at the Washington Monument and New York City had three rallies of more than 10,000 each.

But the scope of the moratorium was reflected across the nation. For example, in Iowa

2 Cosmonauts Return 'Home'

MOSCOW (AP)—Soyuz 6 and the two cosmonauts aboard it returned safely to earth today after testing several types of experimental welding techniques in space, Radio Moscow announced.

The announcement said the first of the three spaceships sent up a last weekend made a soft landing in a "preset area" at 12:52 p.m.—5:52 a.m. EDT—100 miles northwest of Karaganda.

The two cosmonauts "feel fine," the announcement said. The return to earth of Soyuz 6 left two manned spaceships and five cosmonauts still in orbit.

The welding experiment was the chief business announced so far for the troika flight. With it the Soviet spacemen sought to determine the best method of putting together the permanent space stations which the Soviets plan to assemble.

Early in the mass flight there had been speculation that two of the Soyuz spaceships would be joined together and left in orbit to become the world's first space platform. But prospects for this declined as the flight progressed, and the return of Soyuz 6 seemed a clear indication that construction of the space platform will wait for another flight.

"The mission of Soyuz 6 has been successfully completed," Moscow Radio said.

The announcer reported that cosmonauts Georgy Shonin and Valery Kubasov were met by rescue teams as soon as they landed.

There was no indication when Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 would return to earth.

Soyuz 6 blasted off last Saturday at 2:10 p.m. Moscow time. The flight lasted 4 days, 22 hours and 42 minutes.

The spaceships landed on the steppes of Kazakhstan about 340 miles from the launch site at Baikonur.

"You need not open your mouth quite so wide," said the dentist. "I think I'll do this job standing outside."

about 11,000 persons protested in various locations; in the State of Washington, an estimated 20,000 took part; in Arkansas, about 4,000 rallied in Little Rock.

Demonstrations Abroad

Americans abroad and foreign students demonstrated in London, Paris, Rome, Brussels, Vienna, Tokyo, Dublin, Copenhagen and Bogota, Columbia. About 15 infantrymen fighting in South Vietnam wore black armbands to show their support for the protest.

Honest Talks Asked

Alaska Gov. Keith Miller told a high school audience, "If we can honestly discuss our differences of opinion in the open here at home, then our chances to achieve an honorable settlement of the Vietnam war will be greatly enhanced."

Miller said he supported President Nixon's Vietnam policies but thought the moratorium "demonstrates the greatness of America."

The antiwar activity even extended to the World Series in New York, where the Mets beat the Baltimore Orioles after a dispute on whether the flag should be flown at full-staff or half-staff.

Flags At Half Staff

Mayor John V. Lindsay had ordered flags on all city buildings set at half-staff and City Hall draped in purple bunting to commemorate America's Vietnam war casualties.

Shea Stadium, the site of the game, is owned by the city. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he would comply with the mayor's request, but the military honor guard refused to participate if the flag were not displayed at the top of the pole, and Lindsay and Kuhn relented.

3 Astronauts Visit With Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI congratulated and blessed the Apollo 11 astronauts today and said he hoped their trip to the moon would lead men to see more of God's "good creation."

The 72-year-old pontiff received astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins in a half-hour private audience with what he called "the greatest joy in our heart."

He expressed the hope that with the knowledge gained from space exploration, "men may more and more be drawn together as (God's) children in fraternal love, in peace and prayer."

He praised the astronauts' bravery and said that through their "intrepid adventure man has taken another step toward knowing more of the universe."

He told the Apollo 11 commander, "in your words, Mr. Armstrong, one giant leap for mankind."

Later, Armstrong drew applause at the pontiff's world synod of bishops, when he said, "As we traveled between planets, I was profoundly impressed by the best of God's artwork."

He had been asked by a cardinal how the astronauts' personal relationships with God had been affected by their mission.

Decision Likely In Kennedy Case

BOSTON (AP) — Five Massachusetts Supreme Court justices have had an unscheduled consultation, leading to speculation that there would be a quick decision on a proposed inquiry into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne. The body of Miss Kopechne, 28, was found in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car in a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island July 19.

Attorneys for the senator and nine other persons involved in the case asked the Supreme Court last week to rule that an inquiry should be closed to the public and that attorneys should be permitted to cross-examine witnesses.

Normally the justices consult on pending cases on the last Tuesday of the month, which would be Oct. 28. A court source said an unscheduled consultation was held Wednesday. He would neither confirm nor deny that it concerned the petition by Kennedy and his associates.

Education Tax Views Aired At Manistique

MANISTIQUE — The House Taxation Committee at a public hearing Tuesday night in the Schoolcraft County Courthouse heard local opinion on aspects of Gov. William Milliken's proposed educational reform package.

Dr. Robert Jewell, staff member assigned to the Educational Reform Committee, which prepared the recommendations, outlined the basic proposals of the committee.

"We tried to identify the basic problems and offer a set of solutions," Jewell said.

No reform can come about unless there is a change in the present structure of the governing body, he said, in qualifying the recommendation that the State Board of Education be replaced by an appointed director who would serve at the pleasure of the governor.

The recommendations also include abolishing the 15-mill tax limitation and replacement of a 16-mill statewide property tax, an increase in the state income tax, additional cigarette tax, reorganization of local school districts, elimination of the 80 intermediate school districts and creation of 10 to 15 regional districts, and aid to non-public schools with a limit of two per cent assistance based on the assistance to public schools.

Oppose Tax

Lindsay Frenette, chairman of the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors, told the committee he is not in favor of the statewide property tax and with assessments on private property.

"In lieu of tax" payments on such lands mean only 20 cents an acre, he said, and asked support of current legislation (S. B. 438) to correct the inequity.

"As taxes go up, there is less return to local governmental units," he said. "And more lands are vanishing under provisions of the Pearson Act."

We are trying to do something in the area of vocational education, he told the committee, despite sparse population and transportation difficulties. Wushie spoke on official position of the Michigan Association of School Administrators and as superintendent of the Manistique Area Schools.

Boost Other Taxes

Rev. William Brewer, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Presbyterian, said he favored a boosted income tax or sales tax or a combination as a "fairer solution" of taxation. He cited the low income level and high percentage of elderly people in the area.

"Church schools are an integral part of a religious institution and are properly within the province of the church," he said, in testifying against per capita. Rev. Brewer said he favors removing church properties from their tax-exempt status.

Some church properties are income producing, he noted, and should be contributing to local government.

William Olesak reminded the committee of the low number of area students who enroll in college, the even lower percentage who actually graduate and asked consideration of funds to establish vocational training schools. "The whole state, not only the Upper Peninsula, is lacking in adequate vocational institutions," he said.

To Make Recommendations

Rep. George Montgomery, chairman of the committee, said the committee hopes to recommend the means to an "equitable and adequate and quality education for the children of Michigan."

Hearing testimony besides Montgomery were Rep. Vincent Pettiprin (D-Detroit), vice chairman of the committee; Rep. Daisy Elliott (D-Detroit); Rep. James Brown (R-Obamas); Rep. Martin Butth (R-Grand Rapids); Rep. James Folks (R-Horton); Rep. Dale Kilde (D-Flint) of the House Appropriations Committee, and Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique) also were present. Varnum introduced the committee and took part in the committee hearing.

Sen. Hart To Talk On Lake Pollution

MARQUETTE—Federal legislation being considered for the campaign against water pollution of the three largest Great Lakes will be discussed by United States Sen. Philip Hart at a Democratic fund raising dinner in the Holiday Inn here Nov. 8.

Proceeds from the affair, which is for party members from the entire 11th congressional district, will go into the district committee's campaign treasury for 1970, Thomas F. Jernsted, Marquette, chairman, said.

Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley will be toastmaster at the dinner. A welcoming address will be given by Carmen DellaQuadrà, Houghton, former member of the state board of education.

D.U.S. To Help Girl Scouting Grow In Area

Girl Scouting in the Upper Peninsula has come to Escanaba to establish its headquarters and it is planning a great expansion of its activities in the Delta County area and throughout the U.P. in the coming year.

As many as 700 girls in Delta County have been served by Girl Scouting, but the potential for Girl Scout membership is 1,500 and the campaign now starting aims to use as much of it as possible in this famed youth movement.

Delta United Services, which begins its annual fund campaign Oct. 20, finances the Girl Scouts in Delta County as one of its 11 health, welfare and youth programs.

Giving to DUS will help the Girl Scouts expand their activities in Delta County as it opens its membership to all girls seven through 18. The purpose of the organization is to inspire girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism and service so they may become happy, resourceful citizens.

Based On Ethics

The scout program is an informal educational program and is based on an ethical code, troop management, service to others, citizenship, international friendship, and health and safety, with activities related to the home, the out-of-doors and the arts.

Program opportunities for girls include inter-troop activities, activities for Cadettes and Seniors, preparation and application for national and international involvements, and special help to girls needing financial assistance for larger opportunities, and troop camping.

The new Girl Scout campaign will focus on services to troops and the Peninsula Waters Girl Scout Council office in Escanaba, serving Girl Scouting throughout the Upper Peninsula, will help with recruitment, and placing of troops and with the training of adult leaders needed for the expanded program.

"Girl Scouting is on the move!" said Mrs. George S. Douglas of Escanaba, vice president of the Peninsula Waters Council and coordinator of the Delta County Girl Scout program. "It deserves the support of the entire county so the services needed to make the program vital to the girls can be created."

"Girl Scouting can make a difference in the life of a girl. It can help in the development of girls as responsible citizens. It is dependent upon the support it gets from adults in both work and money. With these aids lasting values can be instilled in the girls through the Girl Scout program."

Offices Here

The office of the Peninsula Waters Girl Scout Council at 804 Ludington St., is the hub of Girl Scouting services in the Upper Peninsula. Staff, soon to be announced, has been employed by the Council and its Escanaba office has been activated.

Delta County activities looking toward the big 1970 buildup of services included a day camp in Delta County last summer attended by 88 girls and 15 adults and first usage of a troop camp on 40 acres of forested land near Thompson leased to the Girl Scouts by the Mead Corp. A shelter, well and pump have been installed on the campsite and many troops already have used it.

Personnel Added At Local Agency

Ray LaPorte, director of the Menominee-Delta - Schoolcraft Community Action Agency, announced today the appointment of Shirley Ocas as Social and Health Program Supervisor for the agency's Full Year Head Start Program.

Mrs. Ocas had served the agency as an area representative in the Powers-Spalding area for almost two years before moving to the Head Start position, LaPorte said. Replacing Mrs. Ocas as area representative in the Spalding office is Mrs. Doris Sampa of Stephenson. Mrs. Sampa has been employed in the past by the Delta-Menominee Health Department on a part time basis and has conducted sight and hearing tests for school children in the Menominee County Area.

In still another personnel action, Donald Brunelle of Escanaba, was appointed Neighborhood Youth Corps counselor and coordinator on a half time basis for the tri-county area, LaPorte stated.

College Speakers Symposium 200 Discuss Vietnam

In conjunction with the annual symposium on the war in Vietnam, Bay de Noc Community College held a symposium discussion on the war in the Student Center of the College at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

More than 200 attended the discussion to acquaint students with the political and moral complexities of the war.

President Richard Rinsbert welcomed the students and emphasized the importance of an understanding of major political and social issues confronting our nation. He stressed the importance of education as often an "experience in the power of listening to varying viewpoints and assimilating these different ideas into our own perspective."

He also noted that the College supports "meaningful dialogue on national issues" which presented all sides of the situation.

Paul Opetush, political science instructor of the College, served as moderator of the discussion and presented the historical background of the United States involvement in Vietnam. He also listed a series of questions on the area of national security and international relations that must be resolved before a meaningful solution of the problem can be found.

George St. Louis, who served 18 years in the Diplomatic Foreign Service, explained the political basis for our presence in Vietnam.

Alan Howard, instructor of English at the College, discussed possible alternatives to our present foreign policy in Southeast Asia.

Michael Youngs, an instructor of psychology, presented an analysis of the psychology of civilian reaction to the war, noting that many Americans find themselves between the extremes of radical withdrawal of all troops and escalation of the war movement. Bob Erickson and Tim Brostrom, students at the College, also spoke.

Let's have full participation in Delta and Menominee counties, he said.

The test will reveal whether or not a person has TB infection in his body. If the test is positive, a chest x-ray is advisable, Dr. Cretens said.

Students being tested will be helping to establish an index of TB infection among ninth graders in Michigan. Dr. Cretens pointed out. This will show how much progress has been made in TB and assist in determining guidelines for future testing programs in Michigan schools.

"As a sound basis for determining the index of infection among ninth graders in the state, 100 per cent participation would be ideal," the doctor emphasized.

Parental Consent Needed To Test Students For TB

Consent of parents is needed for students to take the tuberculin skin test being offered to ninth grade students in Delta and Menominee counties this month in a special program conducted by the Delta-Menominee District Health Dept.

Dr. Mary Cretens, department director, said consent cards will be sent home from school and she urged parents to sign them and have children return them promptly to school.

"Let's have full participation in Delta and Menominee counties," she said.

Education Tax Views Aired At Manistique

MANISTIQUE — The House Taxation Committee at a public hearing Tuesday night in the Schoolcraft County Courthouse heard local opinion on aspects of Gov. William Milliken's proposed educational reform package.

Dr. Robert Jewell, staff member assigned to the Educational Reform Committee, which prepared the recommendations, outlined the basic proposals of the committee.

"We tried to identify the basic problems and offer a set of solutions," Jewell said.

No reform can come about unless there is a change in the present structure of the governing body, he said, in qualifying the recommendation that the State Board of Education be replaced by an appointed director who would serve at the pleasure of the governor.

The recommendations also include abolishing the 15-mill tax limitation and replacement of a 16-mill statewide property tax, an increase in the state income tax, additional cigarette tax, reorganization of local school districts, elimination of the 60 intermediate school districts and creation of 10 to 15 regional districts, and aid to non-public schools with a limit of two per cent assistance based on the assistance to public schools.

Oppose Tax

Lindsay Frenette, chairman of the Schoolcraft County Board of Supervisors, told the committee he is not in favor of the statewide property tax and feels the 15-mill limitation should be retained.

"Let the state come up with additional money raised on a person's ability to pay," Frenette said. He said he believes the Legislature has done everything possible to force districts to vote millage for school operation in order to qualify for state aid.

Thirty years ago, during a statewide property tax period, tax reverted properties multiplied and denied local units of government their only source of revenue for capital outlay, he said.

Mrs. Jeanne Larson, president of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan Association of School Boards testified on official MASH opinion and said the association favors a state-appointed director of public instruction, discontinuance of intermediate school districts contingent upon a regional advisory board to insure local control, and approval of the statewide property tax. The MASH opposes parochial and express reservations on the vocational and technical training proposals until "more information is made available," Mrs. Larson said.

Wuehle Testifies

"We don't like the definition 'swamplands,'" said Supt. of Schools Edwin Wuehle in pointing out that 74 per cent of Schoolcraft County lands are state or federally owned and not producing taxes in line with assessments on private property.

"In lieu of tax" payments on such lands mean only 20 cents an acre, he said, and asked support of current legislation (S. B. 428) to correct the inequity.

"As taxes go up, there is less return to local governmental units," he said. "And more lands are vanishing under provisions of the Pearson Act."

We are trying to do something in the area of vocational education, he told the committee, despite sparse population and transportation difficulties.

Wuehle spoke on official position of the Michigan Association of School Administrators and as superintendent of the Manistique Area Schools.

Boost Other Taxes

Rev. William Brauer, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Presbyterian, said he favored a boosted income tax or sales tax or a combination as a "fairer solution" of taxation. He cited the low income level and high percentage of elderly people in the area.

"Church schools are an integral part of a religious institution and are properly within the province of the church," he said, in testifying against parochialism. Rev. Brauer said he favors removing church properties from their tax-exempt status.

Some church properties are income producing, he noted, and should be contributing to local government.

William Olesak reminded the committee of the low number of area students who enroll in college, the even lower percentage who actually graduate and asked consideration of funds to establish vocational training schools. "The whole state, not only the Upper Peninsula, is lacking in adequate vocational institutions," he said.

To Make Recommendations

Rep. George Montgomery, chairman of the committee, said the committee hopes to recommend the means to an "equitable and adequate and quality education for the children of Michigan."

Hearing testimony besides Montgomery were Rep. Vincent Pettiprin (D-Detroit), vice chairman of the committee; Rep. Daisy Elliott (D-Detroit); Rep. James Brown (R-Okemos); Rep. Martin Butth (R-Grand Rapids); Rep. James Folks (R-Horton); Rep. Dale Kildee (D-Flint) of the House Appropriations Committee, and Rep. Charles Varnum (R-Manistique) also were present. Varnum introduced the committee and took part in the committee hearing.

Sen. Hart To Talk On Lake Pollution

MARQUETTE—Federal legislation being considered for the campaign against water pollution of the three largest Great Lakes will be discussed by United States Sen. Philip Hart at a Democratic fund raising dinner in the Holiday Inn here Nov. 8.

Proceeds from the affair, which is for party members from the entire 11th congressional district, will go into the district committee's campaign treasury for 1970, Thomas F. Jernstad, Marquette, chairman, said.

Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley will be toastmaster at the dinner. A welcoming address will be given by Carmen DellaQuadri, Houghton, former member of the state board of education.

D.U.S. To Help Girl Scouting Grow In Area

Girl Scouting in the Upper Peninsula has come to Escanaba to establish its headquarters and it is planning a great expansion of its activities in the Delta County area and throughout the U.P. in the coming year.

As many as 700 girls in Delta County have been served by Girl Scouting, but the potential for Girl Scout membership is 1,500 and the campaign now starting aims to use as much of it as possible in this famed youth movement.

Delta United Services, which begins its annual fund campaign Oct. 20, finances the Girl Scouts in Delta County as one of its 11 health, welfare and youth programs.

Giving to DUS will help the Girl Scouts expand their activities in Delta County as it opens its membership to all girls seven through 18. The purpose of the organization is to inspire girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism and service so they may become happy, resourceful citizens.

Based On Ethics

The scout program is an informal educational program and is based on an ethical code, troop management, service to others, citizenship, international friendship, and health and safety, with activities related to the home, the out-of-doors and the arts.

Program opportunities for girls include inter-troop activities, activities for Cadettes and Seniors, preparation and application for national and international involvements, and special help to girls needing financial assistance for larger opportunities, and troop camping.

The new Girl Scout campaign will focus on services to troops and the Peninsula Waters Girl Scout Council office in Escanaba, serving Girl Scouting throughout the Upper Peninsula, will help with recruitment, and placing of troops and with the training of adult leaders needed for the expanded program.

"Girl Scouting is on the move!" said Mrs. George S. Douglas of Escanaba, vice president of the Peninsula Waters Council and coordinator of the Delta County Girl Scout program. "It deserves the support of the entire county so the services needed to make the program vital to the girls can be created."

"Girl Scouting can make a difference in the life of a girl. It can help in the development of girls as responsible citizens. It is dependent upon the support it gets from adults in both work and money. With these aids lasting values can be instilled in the girls through the Girl Scout program."

Officers Here

The office of the Peninsula Waters Girl Scout Council at 804 Ludington St., is the hub of Girl Scouting services in the Upper Peninsula. Staff, soon to be announced, has been employed by the Council and its Escanaba office has been activated.

Delta County activities looking toward the big 1970 buildup of services included a day camp in Delta County last summer attended by 83 girls and 15 adults and first usage of a troop camp on 40 acres of forested land near Brampton leased to the Girl Scouts by the Mead Corp. A shelter, well and pump have been installed on the campsite and many troops already have used it.

Personnel Added At Local Agency

Ray LaPorte, director of the Menominee-Delta - Schoolcraft Community Action Agency, announced today the appointment of Shirley Oczus as Social and Health Program Supervisor for the agency's Full Year Head Start Program.

Mrs. Oczus had served the agency as an area representative in the Powers-Spalding area for almost two years before moving to the Head Start position, LaPorte said. Replacing Mrs. Oczus as area representative in the Spalding office is Mrs. Doris Szapa of Stephenson. Mrs. Szapa has been employed in the past by the Delta-Menominee Health Department on a part time basis and has conducted sight and hearing tests for school children in the Menominee County Area.

In still another personnel action, Donald Brunelle of Escanaba, was appointed Neighborhood Youth Corps counselor and coordinator on a half time basis for the tri-county area, LaPorte stated.

College Sponsors Symposium; 200 Discuss Vietnam

In conjunction with the national moratorium on the war in Vietnam, Bay de Noc Community College held a symposium discussion on the war in the Student Center of the College at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

More than 200 attended the discussion designed to acquaint students with the political and moral complexities of the war.

President Richard Rinehart welcomed the students and emphasized the importance of an understanding of major political and social issues confronting our nation. He stressed the importance of education as often an "experience in the power of listening to varying viewpoints and assimilating these different ideas into our own perspective."

He also noted that the College supports "meaningful dialogue on national issues" which presented all sides of the situation.

Paul Opferkuch, political science instructor of the College, served as moderator of the discussion and presented the historical background of the United States involvement in Vietnam. He also listed a series of questions on the area of national security and international relations that must be resolved before a meaningful solution of the problem can be found.

George St. Louis, who served 18 years in the Diplomatic Foreign Service, explained the political basis for our presence in Vietnam.

Alan Howard, instructor of English at the College, discussed possible alternatives to our present foreign policy in Southeast Asia.

Michael Youngs, an instructor of psychology, presented an analysis of the psychology of civilian reaction to the war, noting that many Americans find themselves between the extremes of radical withdrawal of all troops and escalation of the war movement. Bob Erickson and Tim Brostrom, students at the College, discussed the meaning of the war and the draft as it pertains to them.

Following the presentations of the panel, a discussion developed which probed into the complexity of the issues involved. The discussion was marked by a responsible exchange of ideas regarding the policy in Vietnam.

The audience, by means of questions and comments, analyzed the ramifications and implications of various approaches to the war, and the symposium discussion which lasted nearly three hours was regarded by those attending as an "educational experience."

Death Claims Mrs. Oliver

Mrs. Jennie Oliver, 83, of the Bishop Noa Home died at 11:45 p.m. Wednesday at St. Francis Hospital where she had been a patient for three weeks.

She was born July 16, 1886 in Carney and was a member of Bethany Lutheran Church. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Laramie of Fairbanks, Alaska, one grandson, one granddaughter and one sister, Mrs. Peter Matley of Escanaba.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home after 9 a.m. Saturday and complete funeral services will be conducted at the funeral home chapel at 1:30 p.m. Saturday with the Rev. Walfred Nelson officiating. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest Cemetery.

Statue Used As Peace Sign Aide

LANSING (AP) — Students gathering at the Michigan Capitol for moratorium day activities Wednesday stuck a "peace" sign in the hand of a statue in front of the building.

The statue is of Austin Blair, "war governor" of Michigan from 1861-64.

The inscription reads: "He gave the best years of his life to Michigan and his fame is inseparably linked with the glorious achievements of her citizen soldiers."

Offshore Oil Leasing Again Being Planned

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel today announced resumption of federal offshore oil leasing which has been suspended since a well polluted the Santa Barbara Channel off California last February.

During the leasing moratorium which began last Feb. 20, Hickel imposed strict new regulations for drilling on federal offshore lands.

Hickel said a sale off Louisiana, suspended since February, will be held Dec. 16.

Another sale, off western Louisiana "will probably be held sometime during the first half of next year," he said. And a sale off Alaska is under consideration for the second half of 1970.

Hickel revealed the plans in a speech prepared for the Louisiana Gulf Coast Oil Exposition here.

Hickel told offitans he did not agree with complaints against his policy of holding oil companies absolutely responsible for cleaning up any pollution from offshore operations.

He called it "a logical extension of principles that the responsible industry has lived with for years."

Hickel also strongly defended the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance which gives oil companies a tax write-off for the oil they pump out of the ground.

This tax allowance has been under fire in Congress, where the House approved a proposal to reduce it.

Hickel conceded the depletion allowance has been "conspicuously abused" in some cases.

Birth statistics show that quadruplets occur once in every 688,408 births.

ROBERT H. COAN, city police patrolman, created this painting to symbolize Escanaba's entry into the jet age. Reproductions in nine colors and suitable for framing are now on sale as souvenirs of the recent dedication of the airport and the visit of the Air Force Thunderbirds. (Daily Press Photo)

Print Honors Thunderbirds

A colorful memento of the dedication of Escanaba's city airport and the visit of the famed Thunderbirds on Aug. 30 is offered area residents beginning this week, thanks to Escanaba Police Patrolman Robert H. Coan and Photo Offset Printing.

The Thunderbirds were delighted and Col. J. D. Moore asked for copies for the Air Force, which suggested that other persons might also want one of the nine-color reproductions. The reprints are 17 by 31 inches, ready for framing, and will be sold for $1 each to defray the cost of reproduction.

The prints will be on sale in local business places and also at the utility office in the City Hall.

The original will be exhibited in the new terminal at the city airport—and Col. Moore will receive gift copies to distribute to the Thunderbirds for display by the Air Force.

Hanoi Asking Timetable On Withdrawals

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi called on President Nixon today to announce his timetable for the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge replied it is "up to your side to make the next move."

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy, just back from a lengthy visit to Hanoi, told the 38th plenary session of the Paris peace talks that U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said last week President Nixon had a timetable for troop withdrawal in mind.

"If the Nixon administration really wants to end the war and already has a timetable for the total withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam, then why does it not dare make it public as requested by the American people?" he asked.

"It is not the announcement of the timetable of U.S. troops withdrawal which prolongs the war but it is because of his policy of war prolongation that President Nixon dares not announce the timetable of troop withdrawal."

"The Americans who participated in the Oct. 15 activities (Moratorium Day) understand they are contributing to the prompt cessation of the war. They will continue to overcome obstacles of all kinds to go farther forward," he continued.

Forget-Me-Not Sale Planned

Commander Raymond DeLonghery of the local chapter of Disabled American Veterans announces the chapter will conduct its annual Forget-Me-Not flower sale on Friday and Saturday of this week. This is a once-a-year program and the chapter members are appealing for public support.

As the number of members who are capable to work in this program is limited, a group of Escanaba Area High school girls who are all members of The Future Nurses Club, have volunteered their assistance, and will sell the Forget-Me-Not flowers. For identification these girls will wear a red, white and blue hat.

The Disabled American Veterans is a nationally chartered veterans organization, whose members all have been wounded while on active duty with the Armed Forces of the United States. The State of Michigan has 20,000 active members, with headquarters in the Veterans Memorial Building, Detroit.

The organization not only aids the Disabled Veteran, but also gives assistance and aid to the widows and orphans of the deceased Disabled Veteran.

"Give a little for him who gave a lot" is the slogan for the veterans' Forget-Me-Not sale.

Two Youthful Jail Escapees Nabbed

CORUNNA (AP) — Two young men who escaped from the Shiawassee County Jail Friday night are behind bars again today.

Steward D. Barron, 18, Fowlerville and William E. Welch, 18, Perry, were arrested Wednesday night in Fowlerville by State Police who returned them to Corunna.

Barron was held on a charge of malicious killing of cattle in connection with shooting incidents in southern Shiawassee County. Welch was held pending sentence on a breaking and entering conviction.

'Art Fair' Is Set For Sunday

The Art Association invites the public to an Art Fair and sale it is sponsoring this coming Sunday, Oct. 19, at the Farmers Market in Escanaba. All of the articles displayed will be for sale.

Mrs. Michael Youngs, chairman of the event, reported that the Art Fair will appeal to "budget-minded homemakers who want original art work in their homes."

The sale will include a wide range of art works such as small wall hangings, paintings, woodcuts, and crafts.

The sale will open at noon Sunday, however, in the event of inclement weather it will be postponed to another time.

Exhibitors taking part are all local artists and members of the newly formed Art Association. Anyone interested in participating in the event may contact Mrs. Michael Youngs.

"This may be a great opportunity to do some pre-Christmas shopping and also to learn more about what's happening in the world of local art. Lookers and buyers are welcome, but especially buyers," Mrs. Youngs said.

Lake Facility Improvement To Aid Port Huron

PORT HURON (AP) — A new center of industry and commerce will grow at Port Huron by the year 2000, joining a revitalized Detroit as an important Great Lakes metropolis, a Detroit Edison study shows.

The study, unveiled today, was made by Doxiadis Associates. On hand for the presentation at Port Huron were Dr. Constantine A. Doxiadis, a widely known architect and planner, and Walker Claker, chairman of the board of Detroit Edison.

The proposed urban centers of Port Huron and Detroit would be joined by a mass transportation system capable of speeds up to 250 miles per hour, Doxiadis said. The main north-south land route would be roughly along the existing Van Dyke Road, the study said.

Doxiadis predicted that in 30 years, Detroit will have 335,000 persons working in the central business district, 260,000 in the rest of the central city and almost 190,000 in the urban fringe.

The study showed Port Huron, at the same point in time, with 150,000 in the central business district plus some 100,000 in the rest of the city's center and about 50,000 in the outskirts.

The ice cream cone was invented by E. M. Hanvi, a confectionaire at the World's Fair in St. Louis, in 1903.

Unique Climbing School On Way Up

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — "Go climb a rock," reads the sign at the foot of the sheer granite walls. And about 800 people have—enticed into climbing this year by a unique mountaineering school.

Operated by the park's concession company, the school offers a $10, one-day beginner's course, good enough to get a novice up a good-sized hill.

But after that, a climber can qualify for more complicated classes—if he has the stamina—and eventually can look forward to scaling some of the cliffs in the national park where the highest rises a sheer 3,000 feet above the valley.

In 1958 the sheer rock walls of Yosemite's El Capitan were first climbed and one of the men who did it, Wayne Merry, a 38-year-old former park ranger, now directs the climbing school.

His customers—who bring their own lunch and boots—are a varied lot.

"They usually know what they're getting into," Merry said.

Most have heard about the school and came to Yosemite planning to sign up, Merry said.

The majority come from the professions; most are fairly young, including a number of college students, and about half are women.

Climbing Rope Used
After an introductory lecture, Merry takes beginners to a cluster of rocks. There they learn to handle the climbing rope and how to climb.

Their course lasts most of the day—from 9 a.m. to about 4 p.m., including the lecture. The rest is practice.

Merry says many graduates of the basic school go on to the $15 one-day intermediate course, and he also arranges advanced training in more difficult climbing. He even takes promising students on guided climbs in the valley.

Learn Fundamentals
Beginners' lessons don't equip the neophyte to climb any of the Yosemite big walls, but he does learn the fundamentals.

"We are trying to steer a course toward making a person able to follow an experienced leader on fairly severe climbs," Merry said.

The flag of the United States, popularly called the Stars and Stripes and Old Glory, originated as the result of a resolution offered by the Marine Committee of the Second Continental Congress at Philadelphia.

Two Ex-Johnson Advisors Speak; One Against War

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Two former advisors to President Lyndon Johnson spoke Wednesday in Moratorium Day observances at the University of Michigan.

"All war is terrible. The sooner we get this one over the sooner we can deal with our social problems," said Wilbur Cohen, dean of the Education school at Michigan. In 1968 Cohen, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was heeded by a U-M audience when he defended President Johnson's policies. He termed the war a colossal mistake Wednesday.

Gardner Ackley, former chairman of LBJ's council of economic advisors and now an economics professor at Michigan, said this country can have both guns and butter. But he agreed with opinions of the Nixon administration that an end to the war would divert millions of dollars to domestic needs.

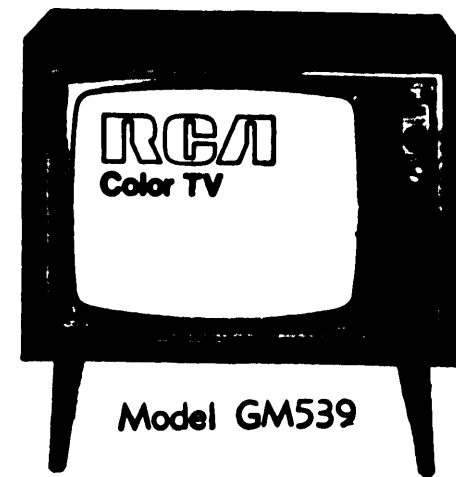

Both men spoke in a question-answer discussion.

The Liberty Bell, in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, is an object of great reverence to Americans because of its association with the historic events of the War of Independence.

RECOGNITION OF 179 YEARS of newspaper experience in the Upper Peninsula by four retired employees of the Escanaba Daily Press, the Marquette Mining Journal and the Iron Mountain News was given Tuesday night by Panax Corp., publisher of the three papers, at a dinner meeting at the House of Ludington. Joseph Gross, second from left, corporation personnel director of East Lansing, paid tribute to, from left, John Barkle, 47 years with the Iron Mountain News; Bertel (Bud) Stadel and Ellen Johnson Perryman, each 45 years with the Daily Press and Fred (Fritz) Harkin, 42 years with the Mining Journal for their years of service to newspapering. All retired this year. (Daily Press Photo)

Offshore Oil Leasing Again Being Planned

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel today announced resumption of federal offshore oil leasing which has been suspended since a well polluted the Santa Barbara Channel off California last February.

During the leasing moratorium which began last Feb. 20, Hickel imposed strict new regulations for drilling on federal offshore lands.

Hickel said a sale off Louisiana, suspended since February, will be held Dec. 16.

Another sale, off western Louisiana "will probably be held sometime during the first half of next year," he said. And a sale off Alaska is under consideration for the second half of 1970.

Hickel revealed the plans in a speech prepared for the Louisiana Gulf Coast Oil Exposition here.

Hickel told oilmen he did not agree with complaints against his policy of holding oil companies absolutely responsible for cleaning up any pollution from offshore operations.

He called it "a logical extension of principles that the responsible industry has lived with for years."

Hickel also strongly defended the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance which gives oil companies a tax write-off for the oil they pump out of the ground.

This tax allowance has been under fire in Congress, where the House approved a proposal to reduce it.

Hickel conceded the depletion allowance has been "conspicuously abused" in some cases.

Birth statistics show that quadruplets occur once in every 658,403 births.

ROBERT H. COAN, city police patrolman, created this painting to symbolize Escanaba's entry into the jet age. Reproductions in nine colors and suitable for framing are now on sale as souvenirs of the recent dedication of the airport and the visit of the Air Force Thunderbirds. (Daily Press Photo)

Print Honors Thunderbirds

A colorful memento of the dedication of Escanaba's city airport and the visit of the famed Thunderbirds on Aug. 30 is offered area residents beginning this week, thanks to Escanaba Police Patrolman Robert H. Coan and Photo Offset Printing.

For the dedication, Officer Coan designed a poster depicting one of the Thunderbirds in flight over the new terminal at the Escanaba airport, with space for the signatures of the members of the Air Force Thunderbirds team.

The Thunderbirds were decorated and Col. J. D. Moore asked for copies for the Air Force, which suggested that other persons might also want one of the nine-color reproductions. The reprints are 17 by 21 inches, ready for framing, and will be sold for $1 each to defray the cost of reproduction.

The prints will be on sale in local business places and also at the utility office in the City Hall.

The original will be exhibited in the new terminal at the city airport—and Col. Moore will receive gift copies to distribute to the Thunderbirds for display by the Air Force.

Hanoi Asking Timetable On Withdrawals

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi called on President Nixon today to announce his timetable for the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge replied it is "up to your side to make the next move."

North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy, just back from a lengthy visit to Hanoi, told the 38th plenary session of the Paris peace talks that U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers said last week President Nixon had a timetable for troop withdrawal in mind.

"If the Nixon administration really wants to end the war and already has a timetable for the total withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam, then why does it not dare make it public as requested by the American people?" he asked.

"It is not the announcement of the timetable of U.S. troops withdrawal which prolongs the war but it is because of his policy of war prolongation that President Nixon dares not announce the timetable of troop withdrawal."

"The Americans who participated in the Oct. 15 activities (Moratorium Day) understand they are contributing to the prompt cessation of the war. They will continue to overcome obstacles of all kinds to go farther forward," he continued.

Forget-Me-Not Sale Planned

Commander Raymond DeLoughary of the local chapter of Disabled American Veterans announces the chapter will conduct its annual Forget-Me-Not flower sale on Friday and Saturday of this week. This is a once-a-year program and the Chapter members are appealing for public support.

As the number of members who are capable to work in this program is limited, a group of Escanaba Area High school girls who are all members of The Future Nurses Club, have volunteered their assistance, and will sell the Forget-Me-Not flowers. For identification these girls will wear a red, white and blue hat.

The Disabled American Veterans is a nationally chartered veterans organization, whose members all have been wounded while on active duty with the Armed Forces of the United States. The State of Michigan has 20,000 active members, with headquarters in the Veterans Memorial Building, Detroit.

The organization not only aids the Disabled Veteran, but also gives assistance and aid to the widows and orphans of the deceased Disabled Veteran.

"Give a little for him who gave a lot" is the slogan for the veterans' Forget-Me-Not sale.

Two Youthful Jail Escapees Nabbed

CORUNNA (AP) — Two young men who escaped from the Shiawassee County jail Friday night are behind bars again today.

Steward D. Barron, 18, Fowlerville and William B. Welch, 18, Perry, were arrested Wednesday night in Fowlerville by State Police who returned them to Corunna.

Barron was held on a charge of malicious killing of cattle in connection with shooting incidents in southern Shiawassee County. Welch was held pending sentence on a breaking and entering conviction.

'Art Fair' Is Set For Sunday

The Art Association invites the public to an Art Fair and sale it is sponsoring this coming Sunday, Oct. 19, at the Farmers Market in Escanaba. All of the articles displayed will be for sale.

Mrs. Michael Youngs, chairman of the event, reported that the Art Fair will appeal to "budget-minded homemakers who want original art work in their homes."

The sale will include a wide range of art works such as small wall hangings, paintings, woodcuts, and crafts.

The sale will open at noon Sunday, however, in the event of inclement weather it will be postponed to another time.

Exhibitors taking part are all local artists and members of the newly formed Art Association. Anyone interested in participating in the event may contact Mrs. Michael Youngs.

"This may be a great opportunity to do some pre-Christmas shopping and also to learn more about what's happening in the world of local art. Lookers and buyers are welcome, but especially buyers," Mrs. Youngs said.

Lake Facility Improvement To Aid Port Huron

PORT HURON (AP)—A new center of industry and commerce will grow at Port Huron by the year 2000, joining a revitalized Detroit as an important Great Lakes metropolis, a Detroit Edison study shows.

The study, unveiled today, was made by Doxiadis Associates. On hand for the presentation at Port Huron were Dr. Constantine A. Doxiadis, a widely known architect and planner, and Walker Ciesler, chairman of the board of Detroit Edison.

The proposed urban centers of Port Huron and Detroit would be joined by a mass transportation system capable of speeds up to 250 miles per hour, Doxiadis said. The main north-south land route would be roughly along the existing Van Dyke Road, the study said.

Doxiadis predicted that in 30 years, Detroit will have 335,000 persons working in the central business district, 260,000 in the rest of the central city and almost 190,000 in the urban fringe.

The study showed Port Huron, at the same point in time, with 150,000 in the central business district plus some 100,000 in the rest of the city's center and about 50,000 in the outskirts.

The ice cream cone was invented by E. M. Hamwi, a concessionaire at the World's Fair in St. Louis, in 1903.

Unique Climbing School On Way Up

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — "Go climb a rock," reads the sign at the foot of the sheer granite walls. And about 600 people have—enticed into climbing this year by a unique mountaineering school.

Operated by the park's concession company, the school offers a $10, one-day beginner's course, good enough to get a novice up a good-sized hill.

But after that, a climber can qualify for more complicated classes—if he has the stamina—and eventually can look forward to scaling some of the cliffs in the national park where the highest rises a sheer 3,000 feet above the valley.

Sheer Rock Walls In 1958 the sheer rock walls of Yosemite's El Capitan were first climbed and one of the men who did it, Wayne Merry, a 38-year-old former park ranger, now directs the climbing school.

His customers—who bring their own lunch and boots—are a varied lot.

"They usually know what they're getting into," Merry said.

Most have heard about the school and came to Yosemite planning to sign up, Merry said.

The majority come from the professions; most are fairly young, including a number of college students, and about half are women.

Climbing Rope Used After an introductory lecture, Merry takes beginners to a cluster of rocks. There they learn to handle the climbing rope and how to climb.

Their course lasts most of the day—from 9 a.m. to about 4 p.m., including the lecture. The rest is practice.

Merry says many graduates of the basic school go on to the $15 one-day intermediate course, and he also arranges advanced training in more difficult climbing. He even takes promising students on guided climbs in the valley.

Learn Fundamentals

Beginners' lessons don't equip the neophyte to climb any of the Yosemite big walls, but he does learn the fundamentals.

"We are trying to steer a course toward making a person able to follow an experienced leader on fairly severe climbs," Merry said.

The flag of the United States, popularly called the Stars and Stripes and Old Glory, originated as the result of a resolution offered by the Marine Committee of the Second Continental Congress at Philadelphia.

Two Ex-Johnson Advisors Speak; One Against War

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Two former advisors to President Lyndon Johnson spoke Wednesday in Moratorium Day observances at the University of Michigan.

"All war is terrible. The sooner we get this one over the sooner we can deal with our social problems," said Wilbur Cohen, dean of the Education school at Michigan. In 1968 Cohen, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was heckled by a U-M audience when he defended President Johnson's policies. He termed the war a colossal mistake Wednesday.

Gardner Ackley, former chairman of LBJ's council of economic advisors and now an economics professor at Michigan, said this country can have both guns and butter. But he agreed with opinions of the Nixon administration that an end to the war would not divert millions of dollars to domestic needs.

Both men spoke in a question-answer discussion.

The Liberty Bell, in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, is an object of great reverence to Americans because of its association with the historic events of the War of Independence.

Misdirected Effort

There were millions of people in the United States involved in the Vietnam Moratorium Wednesday — students, teachers, businessmen and housewives from coast to coast. Some of them participated through the normal course of the day's events by wearing arm bands or fast-ing, etc., but others just devoted hours of time to sit-ins, teach-ins, parading and other simi-larly unproductive endeavors.

The Associated Press reported that 100 youths sat on blankets at the University of Miami in Florida while a list of names of soldiers killed in the war was read. At Temple University in Philadelphia, some 200 students sat in an overnight vigil. Comparable "demonstrations" were staged at dozens of other institutions.

What an unbelievable waste of time!

The Vietnam War, of course, is an unpopular war with the citizenry of this country. Many people have lost sons in the combat. Others have lost husbands, brothers or close friends. But while the war is unpopular with the citizenry, it is not at all a desirable thing to President Richard Nixon and his advisors, either.

The conduct or involvement of the United States in the war is one thing, however. The involvement of the American people is another.

The president, certainly, is aware of the broadening "disillusionment" of the American public with the U. S. position in the war. Public opinion polls, generally accepted as reliable in-dicators, show that nearly 60 per cent of the population does not approve of the war. Mem-bers of the Congress have made their opinions known. So have other leaders of the nation.

So why spend the time and effort to dram-atize and document a fact which is already well established.

Consider, for a minute, how much good could have been accomplished in the nation if the millions of people who were involved in the Moratorium Tuesday would have devoted a like number of hours to a community project.

Not too many months ago, for example, citizens along the Clinton River in lower Mich-igan took a weekend of time to clean up the river. They donated their backs, their mental abilities and their money to the project to re-move from the river debris which had been dumped into it over many years. Out came auto-mobile bodies, refrigerators, scrap metal, cans, bottles, branches and assorted other items. The river today is remarkably clean over that stretch and the cost to the area was just a few thousand dollars and a lot of hard work.

Imagine, then, what might have been ac-complished in the nation if the millions of peo-ple involved in the Vietnam Moratorium would have, for example, devoted their hours to pick-ing up trash and litter from the nation's road-sides.

Such a show of unity would have been every bit as impressive as the public rallies and would have accomplished a great deal more for the nation.

Amazing Vote

An amazing vote pattern revealed itself should give many political analysts second during the 1968 presidential election which thoughts about current conceptions concerning young voters.

For years the public has been assured by prognosticators of the left that America's youth, the best educated in history, they tell us, are becoming increasingly liberal. They assert that as the numbers of young swell, politicians will have to become more radical to win elections.

It is a theory based on preconceived hopes, but a study by four government professors at the University of Michigan has seriously under-mined, if not totally refuted, this idea. Accord-ing to the findings of the four professors, the vote for George Wallace outside the South among voters under 35 years was twice as heavy as the vote Goldwater got from the same group.

The professors pointed out that while col-lege-educated youngsters are politically articu-late and therefore mighty visible, they are "numerically swamped" by their generation col-leagues who did not go to college. The study found further that young workers "were ap-palled by the collapse of patriotism and respect for the law that they saw around them."

In other words they are at opposite polls with the political activists on campus.

It is an interesting footnote to this study that youngsters who are not in school, and there-fore highly vulnerable to the draft, are very much concerned about the decline of patriotism among draft-protected college students. Those who are working and living outside the clois-tered, privileged environment of the campus are also worried about crime in the streets, to which many of them are exposed.

The study should prove a shocker to an-alysts who have operated on the tenuous thesis that the young generation is highly radicalized and has considerably different desires from the great majority of older Americans.

The generation gap, according to the study, isn't what many people suppose.

Peninsula Potpourri

Ontonagon County sheriff's officers are in-vestigating a theft from an apartment in White Pine. Richard Graff, occupant of the apartment told officers that 10 boxes of 12 gauge shotgun shells, a fishing reel and other fishing equip-ment were stolen.

City councilmen in Menominee have con-firmed their intention — expressed in an or-dinance adopted earlier — that the city will op-erate on Central Standard Time during the winter (from the last Sunday in October to the last Sunday in April). Controversy over the time sit-uation has confronted schools in the City of Menominee, the board of education deciding that schools will coincide with city time. According to state and federal law, the county, however, will be on Eastern Standard Time. That means that county, state and federal offices and agencies in Menominee will be on a different time than the rest of the city.

Nixon's Main Worry Is Nation's Economy

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

President Nixon's most visible worry is Vietnam, and, by his defiance of the radicals who want to commit the U. S. to a quick "dump Thieu" movement followed by a deal with a coalition government in Saigon, he will probably find himself embroiled with all the forces that sent Lyndon Johnson into retirement.

He could take it too seriously; after all, it is a long time to election day in 1972, and the position of the North Vietnamese doesn't seem to be im-proving. Nixon still has time for patience.

Actually, his more immedi-ate danger is the one of be-ing whipsawed by contending groups in the economy. The labor unions are intransigent when it comes to wages: as long as prices go up at the rate of 3.5 per cent or more a year, wage contracts are bound to keep pace, or even to anticipate the next round of inflation.

The fact that unemployment has recently gone to four per cent for the first time since October, 1967, will hardly de-ter the unions. As John L. Lewis observed long ago, you build a successful labor move-ment on delivering goodies to the employed, letting relief, or the union welfare fund, or un-employment compensation, take care of the stragglers.

A little unemployment won't have any appreciable effect on the demand for goods and ser-vices and the availability of money and credit, which are the two factors that keep push-ing prices skyward.

For, at the very time that Washington was announcing the four per cent rate of un-employment, the Labor De-partment was issuing a report that there were 3.6 million wage and salary workers who were holding down two or more jobs. Moreover, husbands with two jobs sometimes have wives who also work, which adds up to three jobs per fam-ily.

It is the moonlighting plus the availability of consumer credit that keeps prices on a high plateau. The chains, so my shopping spies tell me, are following an equivocal practice when it comes to offering bargains. When they are push-ing lamb or chicken at a dis-count the price of staples will be set at a higher rate than usual. The idea is that a cap-tive audience, so to speak, will not quit the store with only one thing in the shopping bag; there isn't time or energy to make a round of all the stores.

We are a nation of salesmen, and salesmen are not stupid. Furniture dealers who are used to buying from the fac-tories on 120-day terms find themselves squeezed for work-ing capital when the factories insist on a settlement within 30 or 60 days. But there are ways of mitigating the squeeze.

What you do is sell to the customer from a floor model on a deal with a factory which will guarantee quick delivery of the product. This means less onerous inventory problems, and enables you to do more work with less money. It does not result in price cuts across the board.

Meanwhile, advertising agents and large corporations who can get away with post-poning the settlement of their accounts for 120 or even 180 day are making money on the high rates of interest that any spare cash can command.

Between the housewives, who are angry every time they buy a loaf of bread, and the labor leaders who want raises for their men, Nixon is in danger of getting it from both ends.

Eliot Janeway, a keen an-alyist, keeps insisting that the Administration won't find a way out of the morass until it adopts credit controls. But I wouldn't put it past the in-genious American to find ways around that: the example of the hotel impresarios of the Virgin Islands, who have found they can get space for their guests without putting up building capital simply by making lease-back deals with condominium owners, was mentioned in this column a few weeks ago, and doubtless similar dodges will be discov-ered in other regions of the American economy.

If the Vietnamese War trickles off, the rages of the Vietnam Moratorium and the Students for a Democratic So-ciety will hardly continue to sway many votes. The war will continue to be a miserable thing for parents with sons in the jungle, but they won't be sufficiently numerous to count at the polls.

On the other hand every-body has to live in the eco-nomy, and if Nixon can't find a way of placating both the housewives and the AFL-CIO he will be in deep trouble long before 1972.

Brokerage Business Learns Hard Way

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Wisdom never travels as fast as knowl-edge and so the brokerage busi-ness today is in a stew about something the Greeks under-stood many centuries ago.

"Know thyself," Plato and others are reputed to have stat-ed, and it is presumed that bro-kers have assimilated this bit of wisdom. Perhaps they should have recalled a commentary years later by another Greek, Menander, who said:

"In some ways the saying 'Know thyself' is not well said. It were more practical to say, 'Know other people'."

The "other" people in this in-stance are customers, for the courts have told brokers they can be held liable for losses in-curred by securities buyers who obviously go in over their heads.

Firm Opens Account

Briefly, this is the situation: In 1963 an Indiana company, Dobich Securities Corp., opened an account with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith. Later the company was granted credit and became an unusually big trader. It was a poor trader also.

A trustee for the financially distressed Dobich firm claims that the trading resulted in a loss of about $465,000. He sued Merrill Lynch, alleging among other things that the brokerage house knew Dobich was finan-cially unstable.

In opening the account for Dobich, the trustee claimed,

Merrill Lynch failed to obtain fi-nancial references and state-ments so as to know just what type of customer it was dealing with.

Merrill Lynch replied that it couldn't be held liable, but a U.S. district court didn't agree. It denied a move by the broker-age house for a summary judg-ment, and an appeals court backed up the district court.

This week the issue reached the U.S. Supreme Court and was turned away. The highest court declined to review the case, thus leaving standing the lower court decision. The case now is scheduled to be tried by the dis-trict court.

The argument centers around a well known but sometimes

Opening lead—king of hearts. Consider this hand which shows how extraordinarily difficult it sometimes is to find the best method of defense.

West leads the king of hearts on which East signals with the nine. West continues with the ace and another heart, East winning with the queen. The defenders now have three tricks, but that is the end of the road because South easily makes the rest whatever East returns.

However, the contract can be defeated by a different method of defense. If West leads a low heart to the queen at trick two and East returns a heart to the ace, the killing position is at-tained.

At this point West leads the thirteenth heart. No matter what declarer does he must go down. He may discard from dummy or ruff with the seven, but in either case East ruffs with the jack and West eventu-ally scores a trump trick to put South down one.

It is a difficult line of de-fense to find and may seem to smack of double-dummy play, yet there are logical reasons for West to defend in this fashion.

First, West must realize that —since South is bound to have the ace of clubs as part of his opening bid—it is virtually im-possible for the defense to win any tricks in the minor suits.

Second, when East signals with the nine of hearts, West should reason that if the nine is from a doubleton the con-tract cannot possibly be de-feated by continuing with the ace and another heart for East to ruff. This is sure to be the last trick for the defense.

West's only real hope is to find East with the Q-9-x of hearts. The further hope that East also has the jack or queen of spades is merely an ex-tension of this line of reasoning.

Romney Planning Visit To Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Former Gov. George Romney will fly to Detroit Thursday to meet with some of the state's top busi-nessmen and Republican leaders to seek more funds for the state GOP party coffers.

Romney resigned as governor nine months ago to become sec-retary of housing and urban de-velopment in the Nixon admin-istration. His visit Thursday is believed to be his first to Mich-igan since he took the federal job.

Gov. William Milliken and about two dozen other persons will meet with Romney at a downtown Detroit hotel at 4:30 p.m.

Local GOP sources said Rom-ney will ask businessmen to urge their salaried personnel to contribute to the party of their choice. They said that histori-cally the Republican party has done better from these sources.

Ann Landers

Youngster Told To Abide By The Rules

Dear Ann Landers: I hope it isn't too late to respond to that old broad in Minneapolis who was disgusted with the world because, according to her, people would rather sit around and collect welfare than work.

The stock phrase hurled at folks on welfare is, "Get off your can and get a job." The answer to that one is simple: Who is going to hire a boozier with a lousy work record, or a kid who has been in trouble with the law. Then there's the woman who has six little chil-dren and a missing husband — who could she leave the kids with, even if she had some de-cent skills, which she probably hasn't. I'm not even mention-ing the aged or the sick.

The creeps who scream the loudest about welfare are the one who try to convince them-selves that poverty doesn't exist by moving to a better part of town so they don't see it. By now you may have guessed, I'm a teen-ager who is against the establishment. You can criticize our hair and our clothes and our music but we believe this is a stinking world we're living in and we aren't going to settle for it. — Also Disgusted

Dear Also: I agree there are many aspects of the world that are stinking and I applaud the kids who refuse to settle for shoddy standards and phony values. But please don't burn anything down until you've got something to put in its place. There are others in this world besides you and you don't own it yet.

Dear Ann Landers: Two months ago my mother offered to buy my husband and me a car when we graduate from col-lege in February IF we both agreed to quit smoking. We were delighted with the offer and accepted it.

Three weeks ago my husband started to smoke again. I be-came absolutely furious. I con-sidered it a personal affront that he did not keep his word since we both wanted the car so badly.

My husband and his family insist that my mother had no business pitting us against one another. Furthermore they say she was wrong to dangle the gift in front of us. What is your opinion? — Gift Horse

Dear Gift: Your mother made a generous offer — one which might have added years to your lives. You both accepted it. Your husband apparently had neither the self discipline nor the personal integrity to keep his word, so now you've both lost out. Put the blame where it belongs. On your husband.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 18 and pregnant. Gloria is crazy about the boy but he denies he is the father and refuses to marry her. He has even gone so far as to say he will prove in court, if neces-sary, that three of his friends had sex with her. We've begged Gloria to put the child up for adoption but she insists she wants to raise it. She is immat-ure and has no sense of re-sponsibility. I'm sure she wants to keep the child because she believes it will help her get the boy back. I have two children under 12 years of age and I'm in poor health. I cannot take on a new baby. I'm sure Gloria would put the work on me be-cause this is the way she has always done. How can we make her listen? — F. L. P.

Dear F.L.P.: Legally your daughter is of age and she can do as she pleases. You can and should, however, inform her that you will not keep her baby if she disregards your wishes. I hope for the child's sake she listens to you.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-ad-dressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-ad-dressed, stamped envelope.

AMCHITKA SHAKEUP — This is the seismograph recording at Berkeley, Calif., of the underground nuclear test on Amchitka. The deep line (middle) is a 6.5 Richter scale recording, about the force of a major earthquake. The drum rotates counter-clockwise as the needle records tremors. Paired vertical lines denote one minute intervals on the drum.

'Operation Intercept' Did Prove Smugglers Active

NOGALES, Mexico (AP) — The U.S. customs inspector at the border crossing station had trouble understanding the mumbled words of a youth who had just walked over from Mexico. "What's in your mouth?" the officer finally asked.

There was no immediate reply, but after some prodding, the youth, an Army private in civilian clothes, spat out a small, moist rubber object.

It was a contraceptive device holding nine grains of heroin, enough for two fixes, in the jargon of the modern narcotics cultists.

Girl Dies Of Depe

A 20-year-old Phoenix, Ariz., girl died in a motel room here; authorities blamed an overdose of morphine. She had driven here for the fix.

On a lonely desert road some 70 miles northwest of here, near Ajo, Ariz., a U.S. Border Patrol roadblock snared two cars with marijuana totaling 800 pounds. Customs officers suspected the load had been parachuted to a spot in the desert by airborne smugglers.

All this occurred during Operation Intercept, the sharpest narcotics vigil the United States has ever put up along the 2,000-mile Mexican border. For nearly three weeks customs officers carefully combed thousands of vehicles leaving Mexico at 38 border crossing stations.

Ground radar and aerial and jeep patrols at unguarded border areas were intensified. Even a marijuana-smiffing dog was pressed into duty at San Ysidro, Calif.

"Intercept" has been superseded by Operation Cooperation, a joint effort by the two countries to combat narcotics production and traffic.

The unilateral U.S. effort had come under sharp criticism from Mexican and American leaders who claimed it was harming relations between the two countries and obstructing border commerce that totaled $1.15 billion last year.

Big Marijuana Bust

During Operation Intercept's 21 days, customs agents turned up 3,302 pounds of marijuana; 78 pounds of hashish, a more potent version of marijuana; 16 pounds of peyote, a hallucinogenic cactus; 3 1/2 pounds of heroin; 74,386 pills classified as "dangerous drugs" and three vials of a supposed aphrodisiac. They also seized smaller quantities of morphine, cocaine, demerol, codeine, Percodan—all dangerous drugs if used nonmedically.

Figures for a comparative 1968 two-week period with which to measure Intercept's effectiveness are not available. A veteran customs officer says, however, the operation discouraged drug traffic.

There's no known way of determining how much got through undetected. U.S. and Mexican authorities feel that present control systems are capable of halting only a fraction of the U.S.-bound traffic.

Intensified narcotics control activity in Mexico recently has turned up dramatic evidence of the scope of the drug business in the country.

A raid last month by Mexican cavalry in southern Sonora State, 375 miles below the Arizona border, uncovered a 12-acre marijuana farm, complete with irrigation system, a soil analysis laboratory and harvesting machinery. Eight tons of marijuana were destroyed.

Small Landing Strip

Another modern farm in the mountains north of Guadalajara, in south central Mexico, had a small landing strip and two-way radio equipment.

Such developments responsible Mexicans say, indicate that organized U.S. criminals have moved in to finance growers and buyers in the drug trade. Mexicans don't have that kind of money to put into such elaborate operations, they say.

U.S. officials and some prominent Mexican leaders are privately skeptical of the Mexican government's capacity to lift its skeletal narcotics-control machine to top-rate efficiency. Of some 260 judicial police agents 43 are assigned to narcotics control.

TV Moratorium 'Late Show' Has Few Followers

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The three major television networks devoted most of their early evening news programs to Wednesday's Moratorium Day activities. But the special programs arrived late when the viewing audience was likely to be comparatively small—NBC and CBS at 11:30 and ABC's wrap-up after midnight.

Late Change

The late hour did give the network news staff a chance to put the pros and cons of the day into some balance and they also were able to use material gathered late in the day.

Generally, however, the late

Skilled Trades Workers Eying Union Comeback

HAZEL PARK (AP)—Joseph W. Dunnebeck, president, concedes that the telephone of his International Society of Skilled Trades has been disconnected because of nonpayment of bill.

But Dunnebeck predicts his union will make a comeback and wrest representation of skilled auto tradesmen from the United Auto Workers before next year's new contract bargaining begins in the auto industry.

Dunnebeck said he expected members would come through with a $80 payment each in "advanced dues" and raise an ISET kitty of $400,000. He claims 8,000 members. The UAW disputes this.

It was disclosed Tuesday that Dunnebeck has written members in the Pontiac area that those failing to come up with $80 in "advanced dues" will be required to pay all "past due" $5 monthly dues for the past two years.

That could amount to $120 for those dropping ISET dues after Dunnebeck failed to win bargaining certification for his union from the UAW before current three-year contracts were negotiated between the United Auto Workers and General Motors, Ford and Chrysler in 1967.

Dunnebeck claims 8,000 skilled tradesmen signed membership cards pledging themselves to pay $5 monthly dues until the ISET wins a contract for skilled tradesmen in the auto plants.

shows contained little that was not covered in more compact form in the early news periods.

In the early evening David Brinkley kicked off NBC's news program by emphasizing that the demonstrations calling for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam were "big but not enormous... substantial displays but not enormous." Maybe, but they certainly looked huge in the accompanying pictures.

Walter Cronkite of CBS, as well as Brinkley and ABC's Frank Reynolds, repeatedly pointed out that "not all were in favor" and each devoted some time to the opposition. But mostly the programs concentrated on the protests.

Especially apt seemed Howard K. Smith's quotation from Harry S. Truman that it was characteristic that "the critics be heard more than those who would support policy," followed by cautioning that the day of demonstrations and counter-demonstrations "has not told us which is the nation's will."

Washington March

Cronkite with Harry Reasoner presided over CBS' late night roundup. Frank McGee handled the anchorman's job for NBC.

The shows surveyed the more dramatic moments of the day—the Washington march toward the White House, the candle-lit gathering of crowds in mid-Manhattan after dark.

Both networks rounded up spokesmen for various viewpoints. Neither, however, was able to answer the question in most people's minds—how large a segment of public opinion the protesters represent.

Johanny Cash Cited

NBC's "Music Hall" in a radical and not particularly happy change of pace, presented an hour of live coverage of the Country Music Association awards from Nashville, Tenn.

With Ernie Ford as master of ceremonies, it turned out to be a sort of Johanny Cash festival—the singer won half the awards, including "Entertainer of the Year" and "Male Vocalist of the Year."

Like most events shows, it dragged along through the tawdry with grooves and heart-throb songs. This one had the added disadvantage of being confined to a very special field with a very special body of viewers.

New Thermometer Aids In Animal Temperature Test

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A new infra-red thermometer now being tested at the Michigan State University Center for Laboratory Animal Research may end the unpopular job of trying to catch and hold an animal to take its temperature.

The cone-shaped device picks up heat radiated from the animal.

"Just point the thermometer," Dr. Lawrence Julius of the MSU testing team told the American Association for Laboratory Animal Science meeting at Dallas, Tex.

The MSU scientist said the infra-red thermometer is more accurate than the conventional type. The trick is to learn how to use it for different animals, he said.

For example, he said, the best way to take the temperature of a chicken during egg-laying time may not be the best way to take the temperature of a gorilla during meal time.

"This is the first success with an infra-red thermometer for laboratory animals that we know of," Julius said. "So far," he added, "we have tested it partially only on cats and dogs."

The method, Julius said, is accurate to within one-tenth of a degree centigrade. It takes only a fraction of a second to take the temperature of the animal, he reported.

The thermometer converts the radiated heat energy of the animal into electric energy, which then is used to determine the temperature.

Low Salaries Noted
Lack of funds and corruption in the official bureaucracy—from customs agents to generals commanding military zones in the narcotics-producing states—are cited as obstacles. Low salaries paid customs and narcotics officers, ranging up from $80 to $100 a month, seem to invite bribes.

Dr. Alfonso Quiroz Cuaron, one of Mexico's foremost criminologists, says the basic causes of the problem reside in U.S. society.

"The question is," he says, "what creates the market for narcotics in the United States? We must find the deepest roots, the basic causes and combat them."

"You're trying to combat narcotics addiction with the same sterile methods of liquor prohibition. The problem must be tackled at its source, your society and its ills that have created this market."

AIR CONDITIONED LUXURY STANDARD IN AMBASSADOR!
American Motors' luxurious Ambassador for 1970 features new rear end styling for all seven models. Sedans and hardtops have new rear fenders, new full-width rear bumpers and new taillights. Station wagons have new roof panels to accommodate the longer six-foot luggage racks which are standard, plus new taillights. Air conditioning is standard for all Ambassador models, and six of the seven models—three each in the DPL and SST series—will feature a 304 cubic inch V-8 as standard. Shown is the Ambassador SST two-door hardtop with an optional white vinyl top.

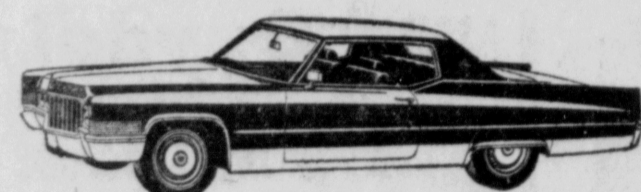

QUIETER CHRYSLER—Engineering improvements in the 1970 Chrysler significantly reduce transmission to the body of road noise and vibration through the use of rubber insulators. Main styling changes center on front and rear and body side ornamentation. All interiors are upgraded in the 1970 Chrysler line, which includes five series.

CHEVROLET'S ELEGANT MONTE CARLO COUPE FOR 1970.
A new concept of elegance is the distinctive Monte Carlo Sport Coupe. This newest addition to the Chevrolet line is characterized by smooth flowing lines and sculptured surfaces dramatically emphasized by the longest hood ever produced by Chevrolet.

BUICK'S GS 455. Functional hood scoops that carry cool outside air directly into the carburetor and a red striped rocker panel molding are the identifying marks of Buick's all new GS models for 1970. The GS 455 shown here is powered by Buick's new 455 cubic inch engine. This model also is available with a Stage 1 performance option that includes a special camshaft, positive traction rear axle, high speed valve train and dual exhausts. The GS 455 is available in two models, a two-door hardtop and a convertible.

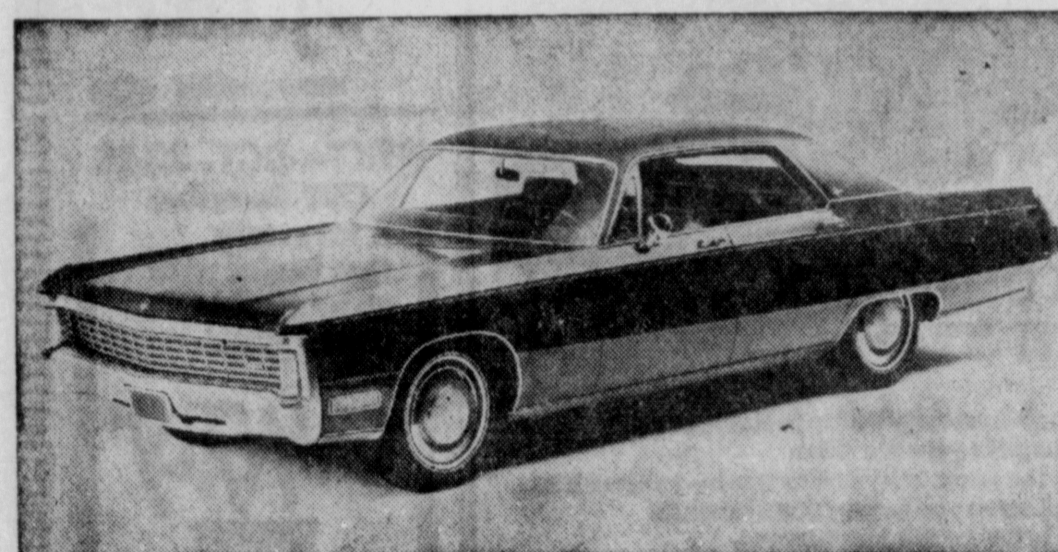

CADILLAC PRESENTS THE SPIRIT OF THE '70's! The brilliant new 1970 Cadillac is styled to reflect the quality of life in the spirited seventies. Its striking new beauty suggests the tempo of people on the move. Richly tailored appointments welcome you to a new era of Cadillac taste and elegance. Sparkling performance invites you to experience an entirely new dimension of motoring pleasure.

INTERNATIONAL SCOUT AND TRAVELALL "The NOW Way To Go." Available in Four, Six and Eight Cylinders. The new Scout steers easier, rides smooth and plays rougher than any vehicle in its class! With 4-wheel drive, the Scout goes anywhere—and comes back. The Travelall out-tows, out-goes, out-shows them all. The new Travelall sleeps 3, rides 9, tows 3 tons . . . and goes anywhere with 4-wheel drive.

LUXURY LeBARON. The 1970 Imperial has new front and rear styling and body-side trim to go with the massive grille, concealed headlights, and new parking and cornering lamps. Four models—two and four-door hardtops—are available in the Crown and LeBaron series. The LeBaron four-door hardtop shown here has a limousine-inspired rear window, in keeping with the luxury car tradition. Many other features are standard on Imperial for '70.

THE 1970 ESCAPE MACHINE — THE CUTLASS IS FROM OLDSMOBILE. The freshest fastback on the road. Olds protects you with energy-absorbing padded instrument panel, sideguard beams, side marker lights and reflectors, anti-theft steering column and stronger, longer-lasting bias ply glass belted tires. Pamper you with luxurious interior trims, rotary glove box latch, easy-to-read instruments. Pleases you with Oldsmobile's famous quiet ride, responsive power, and contemporary styling.

Medical Society Auxiliary Meets

The Women's Auxiliary to the Delta-Schoolcraft Medical Society met Tuesday evening at the medicenter.

Plans were discussed for the purchase of movies or narratives on drug use to be shown to area school students after the first of the year.

Officers for the year are: Mrs. Louis Groos, president; Mrs. John LeMire, vice-president and Mrs. William A. LeMire III, secretary-treasurer.

Dear Heloise: Most housewives share my complaint of never enough room for everything in the kitchen. When a party is imminent, with extra goodies to be stored temporarily, it can really be a headache.

My ingenious sister solved this problem for me with some thumbtacks. She just tacked all those bags of potato chips, corn chips, and dip mixes to my kitchen bulletin board.

They can be removed and opened as needed. Then, too, they serve as a darn good conversation piece when guests drift (as they do at our house) into the kitchen.

Mrs. "X"

Dear Heloise: When you buy a new pair of tennis shoes, cut a piece of adhesive tape and put it inside the shoe where your little toe rubs the side. It will prevent the shoe from wearing out so soon!

The little piece of tape can easily be replaced if it comes loose when washed. It sure makes them last longer.

Kidnaped Girl Safe Following 300-Mile Ride

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A pretty 17-year-old blonde nursery school assistant says a kidnaper kept her terrified during a 300-mile ride up the California coast by brandishing two knives.

"I was scared to death," said miniskirted Kristine Anderson, found bound and gagged but uninjured Wednesday night in a Little League ball park on the grounds of a state hospital.

The kidnaper was believed by police to be a man who escaped Saturday while being held in the Santa Maria jail for investigation of two Pasadena holdups and a robbery-kidnap in Albuquerque, N.M.

"He had two kitchen knives, a big one and a small one," Kristine told newsmen.

The girl was discovered by a guard at the state prison-hospital complex. The kidnaper sped off in a car when the guard approached to see why it was parked in an unauthorized area.

The kidnaper was believed to be driving a station wagon belonging to Beth Peters, operator of the Peter Pan Nursery School in Arroyo Grande where Kristine worked part-time.

Mrs. Peters and a cook, Matilda Visser, were left bound in a closet Tuesday morning when the man kidnaped Kristine and took the car.

Robert Allen Harvey, 31, was caught by the FBI on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

Silverless Dollar Possible Fish Lure?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The subject before the House was a new silverless dollar coin honoring the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But before debate was over Wednesday, there was talk about wampum coming back as currency and the use of coins which could double as lock nuts and fishing lures.

These suggestions came from Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a conservative who argued the House was completing "the degradation and debasement of the metallic currency of this country."

257-65 Vote Count

But the House cast all this aside in voting 257-65 for a new copper and nickel-clad dollar coin with Eisenhower's likeness on one side and a design "emblematic of the symbolic Apollo 11 Eagle landing on the moon" on the other.

Only hours before, the Senate had passed its own version of the bill which specified that the first 300 million of the coins be 40 per cent silver.

The differences are subject to resolution by a House-Senate conference committee and then final approval by both branches.

The House bill also would let the Treasury Department remove silver from the Kennedy half dollars, now 40 per cent silver, by 1971. There is no similar language in the Senate bill, or anything about the Apollo 11 design.

Gross Pulls Strings

Gross several times during the debate pulled strings of brightly colored beads from his pockets, dangled them before the House and suggested something like that might be on the horizon.

"This would just be funny money," Gross said of the proposed silverless coins. "I don't know how long it will be before the Banking and Currency Committee brings in a bill calling for the use of wampum."

And, if that doesn't do the trick, I expect them to approve a bill for what the Narragansett Indians called wampumbeag, which is cheap wampum."

Used As Washer?

Other possibilities, Gross said, would include washers and lock nuts "and at least farmers could use them on tractors" or a stainless steel coin which is bright "and could double as a fishing lure."

But the House paid little attention to the views of Gross or Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, whose amendment to put 40 per cent silver in the new coin was turned down, 73-45.

The Nixon administration has opposed efforts, led by mining states, to put silver in the new coin. The House bill would authorize a new dollar coin made up of 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel.

ALY'S SON ENGAGED — Karim Aga Khan, 32, spiritual leader of some 20 million Moslems of the Ismaili sect and son of the late famed playboy Aly Khan, and his intended are shown in Paris. She is Lady Crichton-Stuart, 29, formerly married to a Scottish peer. She has become a Moslem.

Wives Of POW Get Ultimatum

PARIS (AP) — The North Vietnamese told two American wives they won't release any American prisoners of war until all U.S. troops leave Vietnam, the wives said Wednesday night.

Sue Shuman and Martha Doss of Virginia Beach, Va., said the North Vietnamese advised them they could speed their husbands' release by demonstrating against the war.

Mrs. Doss and Mrs. Shuman, accompanied by the latter's mother-in-law, Mrs. B. C. Boeckeler, met for an hour and 15 minutes Wednesday with two members of North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks. They said they came away very disappointed.

"We wanted to obtain the release of all sick and wounded prisoners," Mrs. Shuman said, "but they told us we would have to wait until all the American troops are out of Vietnam and the war is over."

"We came here with fairly high hopes. We hoped to present the request for humanitarian reasons. They seemed to feel strongly that the prisoner thing is not humanitarian but political."

"Everytime we would bring up the humanitarian thing," Mrs. Doss said, "they would say if we wanted to get our husbands out, we would have to demonstrate."

"I would never demonstrate against my government," said Mrs. Shuman. "That would dishonor my husband."

Cmdr. Edwin Shuman and Lt. Cmdr. Dale Doss were shot down in North Vietnam and wounded March 17, 1968. Shuman was the pilot and Doss the navigator of a Navy A6 carrier plane.

Installing Of New Catholic Bishop Is Set

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — The Most Rev. Joseph Matthew Breitenbeck will be installed as the new Roman Catholic bishop of Grand Rapids in the first week of December.

Bishop Breitenbeck has been auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of Detroit and has been the U.S. bishops' chief representative to the 700 heads of religious orders for women. In Detroit, he was also the supervisor of 4,600 nuns and 180 brothers.

The 45-year-old Bishop Breitenbeck was elated on hearing of his elevation to be the chief pastor for the Grand Rapids diocese's 212,000 Catholics.

"I am delighted to have the privilege of working so closely with the priests, sisters, brothers and laity of Grand Rapids," he said. "Aside from Detroit, I have more friends there than in any other diocese in the country."

Bishop Breitenbeck, a graduate of Detroit's Holy Redeemer parish schools and the city's Sacred Heart Seminary, studied in Rome at the North American College under the Most Rev. Allen Babcock, his predecessor at Grand Rapids.

Legion Seeking Names Of Vets For Honor Roll

The August Maitson Post American Legion is compiling a list of names of veterans or men presently serving in the armed forces. An honor roll will be erected by the Legion.

The name, rank, and the conflict in which the men served, Vietnam or Korea, should be turned in to Clifford Mineau or at the Legion Club.

It is not necessary that the individual has actually served in Vietnam or Korea to be listed, but simply that he has served his country during that period of time.

Earnings Up

DETROIT (AP) — Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit pharmaceutical firm, has reported a 17.8 per cent net increase in earnings for the first nine months of 1969. Net income for the firm was $14,478,112, or 97 cents per share in 1969, compared with $12,290,619, or 83 cents per share in 1968. Total sales for the period were $204,477,824.

You get a little over $4.00 for every $3.00 you invest.

And that's nothing to sneeze at.

Some people have misconceptions about Savings Bonds.

They think they're a nice, safe investment but they don't really give much in the way of returns.

Look at it this way. U.S. Savings Bonds now pay $\frac{3}{4}\%$ interest when held to maturity — a little over \$4.00 back for every \$3.00 you invest, in just seven years.

On top of that, the interest is exempt from state or local income tax, and Federal tax may be deferred until you cash the Bonds. That can make a real difference in what you actually get back on your investment.

Also, buying Series E Bonds lets you purchase higher interest Freedom Shares in combination — and they pay a full 5% when held to maturity of four and one-half years.

Any way you look at it, Savings Bonds are a good investment.

And you know something? They always will be.

Consumers Aide Office Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart called today for establishment of a permanent office of consumer affairs in the executive branch.

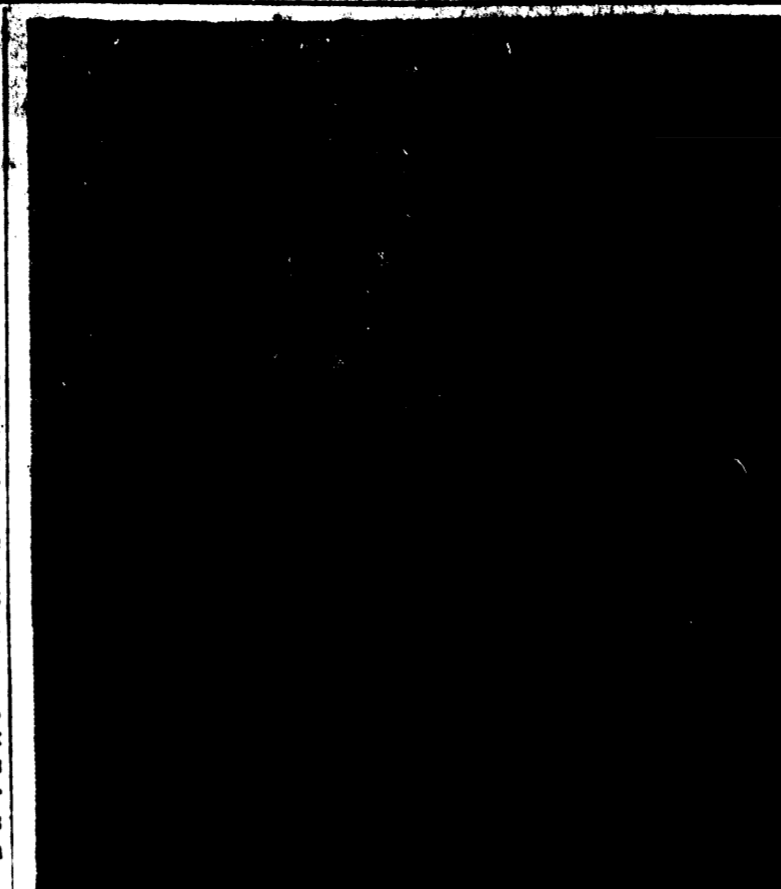

The Michigan Democrat suggested his proposal be added to a bill he is sponsoring along with Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, which would set up an entirely independent consumer council.

"Consumers are asking which of several legislative proposals deserves their support," said Hart. "The answer is, quite simply, a total package to give the consumer the diverse voice he needs to promote and protect his interest."

Hart outlined his proposal at a hearing of the Senate Consumer subcommittee.

for every $3.00
you invest.

And that's nothing

Some people have misconceptions about Savings Bonds.

They think they're a nice, safe investment but they don't really give much in the way of return.

Look at it this way. U.S. Savings Bonds now pay 4 1/2% interest when held to maturity — a little over $4.00 back for every $3.00 you invest, in just seven years.

On top of that, the interest is exempt from state or local income tax, and Federal tax may be deferred until you cash the Bonds. That can make a real difference in what you actually get back on your investment.

Also, buying Series E Bonds lets you purchase higher interest Franklin D. Roosevelt Bonds in combination — and they pay a full 5% when held to maturity of four and one-half years.

Any way you look at it, Savings Bonds are a good investment.

And you know something? They always will be.

GLADSTONE BRAVES — Friday night's game at Sault Ste. Marie will mark the close of the 1969 football season for this group of players making up the roster of the Gladstone Braves. The Braves, under Coach Don Pfotenhauer, have scored 169 points in seven games this year and have allowed their opponents to score just 33. Gladstone has a 5-1-1 record going into Friday's game. Three Schools Remain Unbeaten As U.P. Grid Season Nears End

By MIKE UTT

High school football teams around the Upper Peninsula will head down the home stretch of the season this weekend with 19 games scheduled to be played; and with the majority of the teams having two more games left to play, only Gwinn, Rudyard and Hancock remain undefeated although both Hancock and Gwinn have each been tied once.

In games involving area teams this weekend, Gladstone will travel to Sault Ste. Marie Friday night for a game which will decide the championship of the Great Lakes Conference, the Manistique Emeralds pay a visit to Marquette Friday night, the Holy Name Crusaders are on the road at Munising Saturday afternoon for a non-conference tilt and the Escanaba Eskymos play host to Iron Mountain Saturday night in a homecoming game.

The Braves showed both offensive and defensive strength in blanking the Miners last Saturday and they now have recorded victories in four straight games since losing to Ishpeming in the third week of the season. Their offense is led by triple-threat quarterback Cliff Young and halfbacks John Skellenger and Gary Young while the powerful defense is paced by tackle Tom Pfotenhauer and end Bob Young.

Gladstone has scored 169 points this season in seven games while allowing their opponents just 33. Cliff Young is the leading scorer on the team with 49 points while Gary Young has 36 and Skellenger 18. The Blue Devils have scored 130 points in seven games this season and have given up an even 100.

It will be homecoming at Escanaba High School Saturday and Coach Jerry Cvangros and his Eskymo gridders will be out trying to keep a two-game winning streak going against Iron Mountain in a Great Northern Conference contest beginning at 7:30.

Score Victory

Escanaba pulled out a 7-6 victory over Marinette in the final 22 seconds of their last outing, as quarterback Bob Gauthier hit tailback Rick Brookes with a touchdown pass in the end zone before Tom Kangas put the Eskymos in front with his point after touchdown kick. The Eskymos showed that they could move the ball against the big Marinette eleven, but once again costly mistakes prevented the Eskymos from getting on the scoreboard earlier.

Cvangros will probably use the same lineup against Iron Mountain that started against Marinette. Gauthier will lead the team from his quarterback spot while Doug Howard and Brookes will be the running backs with Brian Larson in the wingback slot. Gene Timmer and Bob Thompson will man the end posts, Mike Olson and Gary Brawley will be at tackles, Chuck Olson and Randy Sanville at guards and Lynn Collins at center.

On defense, Cvangros will use Kangas and Al Thorbjornsen at ends, Mike Olson and Brawley at tackles, Collins at middle guard, Dennis Eastman and Bruce Irving at linebackers and Bill Suriano, Steve Rolig, Timmer and Thompson in the secondary.

Escanaba has scored 119 points against seven opponents and has allowed 76 points while Iron Mountain, behind quarterback Bob Palomaki and halfback Doug Schupp, has scored 48 points while allowing 165.

No Breaks

The breaks really haven't been going for the Holy Name Crusaders so far this season, but Coach Doug Bovin and his squad will try to improve their bad luck situation Saturday afternoon when they take on the Munising Mustangs at 2:15.

Holy Name has lost three games by a total of eight points. They have scored 136 points against seven opponents while allowing just 40 points to be scored on them. In their last outing, the Crusaders were hit with the jinx again when they lost a 7-6 decision to West Iron County last Friday.

Junior quarterback Joe Knoll, who replaced the injured Bob McGinn against the Wykons, looked real impressive in both games he has played this year and will likely get the call again at Munising. Joining Knoll in the backfield will be Dan Young, who has already scored 13 touchdowns this season, at fullback; Tom Ness or Joe Sinclair at halfback and John Baribeau as the flanker. Ness, the Crusader speed merchant, has been bothered by a leg injury most of the season and has seen very little action in Holy Name's last two games.

Line Starters

Linemen slated for a starting role against Munising will be John DeGrand and Joe Harvey or Neil Odgers at ends, Mark Johnson and Hale Currier at tackles, Ray Hughes and Dick Gorencham at guards and Steve Jutten at center. Harvey has also been hampered by injury as of late and was used sparingly in the games against West Iron County and Manistique.

Playing in the front wall for the Crusaders on defense will be Chuck Guay, Jim Jutten, Glen Theoret, Jerry Corbett and Johnson while Gary Sten-

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets went into today's fifth game of the World Series on the threshold of their first world championship—and nothing about the amazing Mets is more amazing than the way they finally got both feet on the doorstep to the throne room.

For the implausible champions of the National League got there Wednesday on a double lost in the sun, a punt that didn't roll 10 feet and a wild throw toward first. That combination gave the Mets a 10th inning run and a 2-1 victory over Baltimore's befuddled Orioles.

So the Mets, who turned the baseball world upside down this year by making the final team standings look topsy-turvy, took a 3-1 edge over the heavily favored Orioles and the opportunity to wrap up the Series today.

Amazing Transition

Once holders of the world record for ineptness, the Mets have made the amazing transition to the top on a combination of solid pitching, timely hitting—and plays that have provoked the gag-line that "God is a Mets fan."

Look what happened in that almost unbelievable 10th inning when the Orioles handed them the keys to the throne room.

It began when catcher Jerry Grote sent a short fly to left that was ticketed for an out.

"I thought the ball was hit harder than it was," said left fielder Don Buford, "and I broke back to keep from giving up an extra base hit. Then I lost the ball in the glare and didn't pick it up until it got above the sun."

Texas Leaguer

By that time, only shortstop Mark Belanger had a shot at the falling fly as he raced toward the point of impact with his back to the plate. But the ball fell beyond the reach of his outstretched glove as Grote stood on second base.

Rod Gaspar went in to run for Grote and Al Weis was given an intentional walk.

At this juncture, it was time for some strategy, and it's possible that the loss of Manager Earl Weaver—in the third inning he became the first manager ejected from a World Series game in 34 years—may have contributed to what followed.

That may never be known. What is known is that coach Billy Hunter, who took over for Weaver, ordered pitcher Dick Hall to issue an intentional walk to Al Weis and then brought in Pete Richert to pitch to pinch hitter J.C. Martin.

Follows Orders

Martin's orders from Manager Gil Hodges were simple: Bunt—and keep it down the first base line away from Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' brilliant third baseman. Martin complied on the first pitch, the ball trickling to the lip of the infield grass.

Now Gaspar was running and two Orioles—Richert and catcher Ellie Hendricks—were racing toward the ball, brushing against each other in the indecision of the moment.

Mets Nip Orioles In 10th; Hope To Clinch Title Today

"I called for the ball all the way," Hendricks said, "and maybe Pete did too. But with all the crowd noise, I don't know. The play was out in front of me."

It was out in front of a record crowd of 57,367 too, and they yelled and shouted and cheered as Richert grabbed the ball, hurried his throw and hit Martin in the left wrist. The ball ricocheted into the first base hole while Gaspar raced home with the winning run.

Varied Response

The responses to what had just happened varied:

"The ball just happened to hit J.C.," said the cool Hodges. "I'm glad it did."

"I hope," said Richert, "his wrist's broken."

"I don't even know who threw the ball," said Martin, "but he made a good play because the ball had back spin. I knew they had no play so my job was to get to first. The ball hit me on the left wrist."

"I didn't see the play, said Gaspar. "I got a very bad jump. I thought they held the ball and we had the bases loaded. Then I saw it roll away and knew they had no way of getting me."

"I was running with him down the line," said third base coach Eddie Yost. "I think I could have beat him to the plate, I was so excited. But I stopped three-quarters of the way and watched him go the rest of the way."

Good Chance

Now the Mets have a chance to go to the rest of the way today with Jerry Koosman, the second game winner, against Dave McNally. Koosman needed one-out relief help to win that one with a two-hitter after the Orioles won the opener by beating Tom Seaver.

Seaver got his opportunity to get even in the fourth game and did by limiting the Orioles to six hits in a game marked by Weaver's expulsion and a brief moment of tension over the flag raising ceremony because of the anti-war Moratorium Day.

Weaver was ejected after the manager in World Series history besides Charley Grimm of the 1935 Chicago Cubs to be given the thumb when he was thrown out by plate umpire Shag Crawford during the third inning.

Tests Crawford

Weaver was ejected after jumping out of the Baltimore dugout following a strike call on Orioles' shortstop Mark Belanger.

"Weaver was just trying to test me," Crawford explained. "He wasn't coming to the plate just to say 'hello.' He knows what the baseball rule is. A manager is not allowed to protest balls and strikes."

"All I said was 'Shag' about three times," said Weaver, "because he was walking away—and he turned and said I was out of the game."

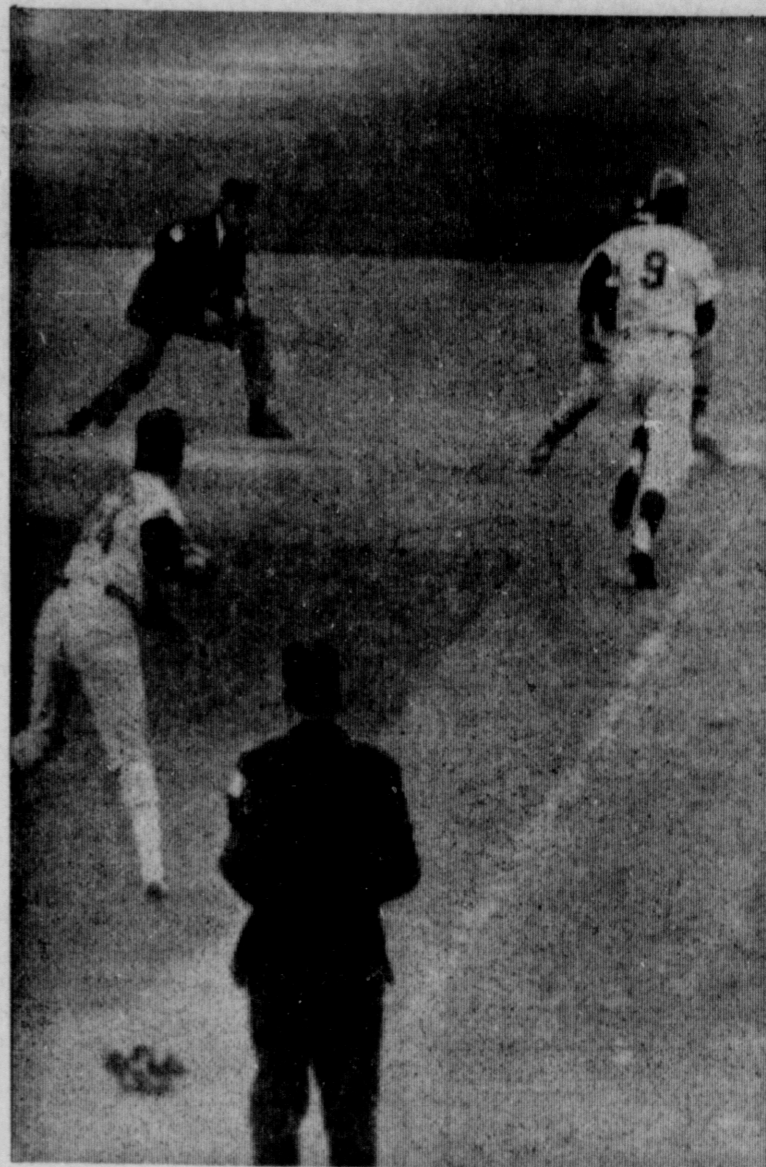

That moment of tension came after the U.S. Marines said they would not participate in the flag-raising ceremony before the start of the game if the flag was flown at half staff as ordered by Mayor Lindsay in observance of the anti-war moratorium.

A quick conference ensued between Lindsay, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and a Naval officer with the result that the decision was reached to fly the flag at full staff.

The Mets got off quickly in the second inning when Donn Clendenon led with a homer off Mike Cuellar. It stayed that way until the top of the ninth when the Orioles broke through and tied it on singles by Frank Robinson and Boog Powell and a sacrifice fly by Brooks Robinson on which Ron Swoboda made a diving one-handed catch.

Then, in the bottom of the 10th, the little double, the little bunt and the big throw got the job done.

"I'm a believer in this club," said Seaver. "Slowly, we're making believers of everybody."

Orioles To Use Photo As Winning Incentive

NEW YORK (AP) — Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball, said today the New York Mets' 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles in Wednesday's fourth World Series game was officials "and that is that."

"It was a judgment play. It is not an appeal play. The game is over. Nothing will be done about it," the commissioner said in short sentences as he rushed to Shea Stadium to today's fifth game.

Although the play cost the Orioles the fourth game, and put them down, three games to one, the controversial play may be just the thing to revive the American League champions.

"I'm going to hang this Associated Press photo in the clubhouse today and it might be just what we need to get started again," said Baltimore pitcher Pete Richert Wednesday night hours after the Mets had won 2-1 in 10 innings to take a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

The play that produced the winning Met run came with two on and none out. Pinch hitter J.C. Martin bunted in front of the plate. Richert dashed off the mound, grabbed the ball and threw to first base. The ball hit Martin on the left wrist and bounced away for an error, permitting pinch runner Rod Gaspar to score from second.

Few in the crowd of 57,367 noted at the time that Martin was running on the inside of the foul line.

It was not until an Associated Press photo showed Martin running on the inside of the foul line that a controversy developed at press headquarters and continued far into the night.

The picture showed Martin a few steps from first base, with the ball, thrown by Richert, in the air close to Martin. First base umpire Lou DiMuro is looking at the bag and Shag Crawford, the home plate umpire, is looking on from near the plate.

"What's Shag Crawford doing there with his hands in his pockets," Richert said after he had been shown the photo. "All he's got to look for is that play and he didn't call it."

"If the runner is inside the line he's supposed to be out. It's not Met luck. It's just the fact that a man did not make the call he should have."

In the clubhouse after the game, Richert had said he would like to see a picture of the play. "I don't know if Martin was inside the foul line while running towards first. I tried to throw the ball inside the line."

Bill McKinley, a former American League umpire, saw the picture and commented: "The runner is not out in this case unless he interferes with the throw. If the first base ump is looking at first base as DiMuro is doing it should be up to the home plate umpire to make the call."

Johnny Murphy, vice president and general manager of the Mets, saw the photo and declared "it appears that Martin was a few inches to the left of the foul line. I don't think there's any problem, though. There was no interference."

The ruler in question reads: "A bat is out when, in running the last half of the distance from home base to first base, while the ball is being fielded to first base, he runs outside (to the right of) the three-foot line or inside (to the left of) the foul line and in the umpire's judgement in so doing interferes with the fielder making the throw to first base."

None out when winning run scored.

Crusader Frosh Bomb Manistique

The Holy Name Crusader freshman football team rallied in the second half to score a 42-6 victory over the Manistique Emerald frosh squad in a game played last night at the Holy Name Athletic Field.

The Crusaders and Emeralds were all knotted up at 6-6 at halftime, but Holy Name, behind Mike Dailey, began pouring it on in the third quarter.

Dailey scored four touchdowns in the game and had another called back because of a clipping penalty.

More Nip Orioles To Sault Hope To Clinch Title Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets won today's fifth game of the World Series on the threshold of their first world championship, and nothing about the exciting Mets is more convincing than the way they played today. The Mets, who had lost the first two games, won the third, fourth and fifth games to lead the series 3-2.

For the instantaneously famous Mets, today was a day of triumph. They had won the series 3-2, and they had won the game 3-2. The Mets, who had lost the first two games, won the third, fourth and fifth games to lead the series 3-2.

GLADSTONE BRAVES — Friday night's game at Sault Ste. Marie will mark the close of the 1969 football season for this group of players making up the roster of the Gladstone Braves. Three Schools Remain Unbeaten As U.P. Grid Season Nears End

High school football teams around the Upper Peninsula will head down the home stretch of the season this weekend with 19 games scheduled to be played; and with the majority of the teams having two more games left to play, only Gwin, Rudyard and Hancock remain undefeated although both Hancock and Gwin have each been tied once.

In games involving area teams this weekend, Gladstone will travel to Sault Ste. Marie Friday night for a game which will decide the championship of the Great Lakes Conference, the Marquette Emeralds play a visit to Marquette Friday night, the Holy Name Crusaders are on the road at Munising Saturday afternoon for a non-conference tilt and the Escanabe Eskymos play host to Iron Mountain Saturday night in a homecoming game.

at the Escanabe Athletic Field. Gladstone clinched at least a tie for the Great Lakes title with a 6-0 romp over Negaunee last Saturday while Munising clinched Sault Ste. Marie's title hopes by pinning a 19-12 defeat on the Blue Devils. Saturday night's game, which gets underway at 8 p. m. at the Soo, will also be the last of the season for the Braves and the last ever for their coach Don Potenhauer, who announced his retirement from the coaching ranks yesterday.

Team Strength

The Braves showed both offensive and defensive strength in blanking the Miners last Saturday and they now have recorded victories in four straight games since losing to Ishpeming in the third week of the season. Their offense is led by triple-threat quarterback Cliff Young and halfbacks John Skellenger and Gary Young while the powerful defense is paced by tackle Tom Potenhauer and end Bob Young.

Gladstone has scored 169 points this season in seven games while allowing their opponents just 28. Cliff Young is the leading scorer on the team with 49 points while Gary Young has 36 and Skellenger 18. The Blue Devils have scored 130 points in seven games this season and have given up an even 100.

It will be homecoming at Escanabe High School Saturday and Coach Jerry Cvangos and his Eskymo gridmen will be out trying to keep a two-game winning streak going against Iron Mountain in a Great Northern Conference contest beginning at 7:30.

Scores Victory

Escanabe pulled out a 7-6 victory over Marinette in the final 22 seconds of their last outing, as quarterback Bob Gauthier hit tailback Rick Brooks with a touchdown pass in the end zone before Tom Kangas put the Eskymos in front with his point after touchdown kick. The Eskymos showed that they could move the ball against the big Marinette eleven, but once again costly mistakes prevented the Eskymos from getting on the scoreboard earlier.

Cvangos will probably use the same lineup against Iron Mountain that started against Marinette. Gauthier will lead the team from his quarterback spot while Doug Howard and Brooks will be the running backs with Brian Larson in the wingback slot. Gene Timmer and Bob Thompson will man the end posts, Mike Olson and Gary Brewley will be at tackle, Chuck Olson and Randy Saville at guards and Lynn Collins at center.

On defense, Cvangos will use Kangas and Al Thorbjornsen at ends, Mike Olson and Brewley at tackles, Collins at middle guard, Dennis Eastman and Bruce Irving at linebackers and Bill Suriano, Steve Rolig, Timmer and Thompson in the secondary.

Escanabe has scored 119 points against seven opponents and has allowed 76 points while Iron Mountain, behind quarterback Bob Palomaki and halfback Doug Schupp, has scored 48 points while allowing 165.

No Breaks

The breaks really haven't been going for the Holy Name Crusaders so far this season, but Coach Doug Bovin and his squad will try to improve their bad luck situation Saturday afternoon when they take on the Munising Mustangs at 3:15.

Holy Name has lost three games by a total of eight points. They have scored 138 points against seven opponents while allowing just 40 points to be scored on them. In their last outing, the Crusaders were hit with the jinx again when they lost a 7-6 decision to West Iron County last Friday.

Junior quarterback Joe Knoll, who replaced the injured Bob McGinn against the Wykons, looked real impressive in both games he has played this year and will likely get the call again at Munising. Joining Knoll in the backfield will be Dan Young, who has already scored 13 touchdowns this season, at fullback; Tom Nees or Joe Sinclair at halfback and John Baribeau as the flanker. Nees, the Crusader speed merchant, has been bothered by a leg injury most of the season and has seen very little action in Holy Name's last two games.

Line Starters

Linemen slated for a starting role against Munising will be John DeGrand and Joe Harvey or Neil Odgers at ends, Mark Johnson and Hale Currier at tackles, Ray Hughes and Dick Gorenchian at guards and Steve Juttin at center. Harvey has also been hampered by injury as of late and was used sparingly in the games against West Iron County and Manistique.

Unsold Ignites Bullet Comeback

By The Associated Press

Wes Unseld is picking up where he left off a year ago, but Bob Cousy is looking forward to a fresh start.

Unseld, Rookie of the Year and the Most Valuable Player in the NBA last season, scored only 10 points Wednesday night — but eight of them came in the last period to guide Baltimore to a come-from-behind 98-93 opening success over the Chicago Bulls.

The New York Knicks, meanwhile, came up with a closing rally to sidetrack Cincinnati 94-89 and spoil the NBA coaching debut of Cousy, former Boston Celtics star and Boston College coach.

Atlanta opened by handing Seattle its second straight loss 124-119 in the only other game scheduled.

Unseld drew four fouls during the opening period and set on the bench during the second and third while Chicago was taking a 76-70 lead.

But his hot late shooting, along with help from Earl Monroe and Gus Johnson, powered the Bulls to an 84-79 lead with 3:47 left.

Chicago managed to cut it to 92-91 with a minute to go before Baltimore rallied again.

Monroe led the Bulls with 26 points and Johnson had 16 and 23 rebounds. Jerry Sloan scored 21 for the Bulls.

New York, picking up its second victory in as many nights, held a 52-42 halftime command before the scrambling Royals slapped on a full court press in the third period. The Royals forced four quick turnovers and Tom Van Arsdale hit four baskets as Cincinnati took a 65-64 lead heading into the final session.

But Cazzie Russell kept the Knicks alive with nine points in the fourth quarter, and in the final minute Willis Reed's first basket gave New York an 88-86 lead.

Dave DeBusschere's jump shot, Reed's field goal and a free throw by Walt Frazier then put it out of reach.

Atlanta had a 112-87 advantage with 7:02 left when Coach Richie Guerin went to his bench and Seattle suddenly got hot behind John Tressant and Bob Rule, trimming the lead to 118-115 with less than two minutes left. But the Sonics never got closer than that the rest of the way.

Jim Davis led the Hawks with 31 points and 19 rebounds while Lou Hudson had 27 points. Tressant finished with 29 and Rule 28.

Orioles To Use Photo As Winning Incentive

NEW YORK (AP) — Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball, said today the New York Mets' 3-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles in Wednesday's fourth World Series game was official "and that is that."

"It was a judgment play. It is not an appeal play. The game is over. Nothing will be done about it," the commissioner said in short sentences as he rushed to Shea Stadium to today's fifth game.

Although the play cost the Orioles the fourth game and put them down, three games to one, the controversial play may be just the thing to revive the American League champions.

"I'm going to hang this Associated Press photo in the clubhouse today and it might be just what we need to get started again," said Baltimore pitcher Pete Richard Wednesday night hours after the Mets had won 3-1 in 10 innings to take a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

The play that produced the winning Met run came with two on and none out. Pitcher J.C. Martin bunted in front of the plate. Richard dashed off the mound, grabbed the ball and threw to first base. The ball hit Martin on the left wrist and bounced away for an error, permitting pinch runner Rod Gaspar to score from second.

Few in the crowd of 37,387 noted at the time that Martin was running on the inside of the foul line.

It was not until an Associated Press photo showed Martin running on the inside of the foul line that a controversy developed at press headquarters and continued far into the night.

The picture showed Martin a few steps from first base, with the ball, thrown by Richard, in the air close to Martin. First base umpire Lou Dikuro is looking at the bag and Shag Crawford, the home plate umpire, is looking on from near the plate.

"What's Shag Crawford doing there with his hands in his pockets," Richard said after he had been shown the photo. "All he's got to look for is that play and he didn't call it."

"The runner is inside the line he's supposed to be out. It's not Met luck. It's just the fact that a man did not make the call he should have."

In the clubhouse after the game, Richard said he would like to see a picture of the play. "I don't know if Martin was inside the foul line while running towards first. I tried to throw the ball inside the line."

Bill McKinley, a former American League umpire, saw the picture and commented: "The runner is not out in this case unless he interferes with the throw. If the first base umpire is looking at first base as DiMuro is doing it should be up to the home plate umpire to make the call."

Johnny Murphy, vice president and general manager of the Mets, saw the photo and declared: "It appears that Martin was a few inches to the left of the foul line. I don't think there's any problem, though. There was no interference."

The rule in question reads: "A batter is out when, in running the last half of the distance from home base to first base, while the ball is being fielded to first base, he runs outside (to the right of) the three-foot line or inside (to the left of) the foul line and in the umpire's judgment is so doing interference with the fielder making the throw to first base."

Weaver became the only manager in World Series history besides Charley Grimm of the 1935 Chicago Cubs to be given the thumb when he was thrown out by plate umpire Shag Crawford during the third inning.

Weaver was ejected after jumping out of the Baltimore dugout following a strike call on Orioles' shortstop Mark Belanger.

"Weaver was just trying to test me," Crawford explained. "He wasn't coming to the plate just to say 'hello.' He knows what the baseball rule is. A manager is not allowed to protest balls and strikes."

"All I said was 'Shag' about three times," said Weaver, "because he was walking away—and he turned and said I was out of the game."

That moment of tension came after the U.S. Marines said they would not participate in the flag-raising ceremony before the start of the game if the flag was flown at half staff as ordered by Mayor Lindsay in observance of the anti-war moratorium.

A quick conference ensued between Lindsay, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and a Naval officer with the result that the decision was reached in fly the flag at full staff.

The Mets got off quickly in the second inning when Donn Clemons led with a homer off Mike Cuellar. It stayed that way until the top of the ninth when the Orioles broke through and tied it on singles by Frank Robinson and Boog Powell and a sacrifice fly by Brooks Robinson on which Ron Swoboda made a diving one-handed catch.

Then, in the bottom of the 10th, the little double, the little bunt and the big throw got the job done.

"I'm a believer in this club," said Weaver. "Slowly, we're making believers of everybody."

By that time, only shortstop Mark Belanger had a shot at the falling fly as he raced toward the point of impact with his back to the plate. But the ball fell beyond the reach of his outstretched glove as Grote stood on second base.

Rod Gaspar went in to run for Grote and Al Weis was given an intentional walk.

At this juncture, it was time for some strategy, and it's possible that the loss of Manager Earl Weaver—in the third inning he became the first manager ejected from a World Series game in 34 years—may have contributed to what followed.

That may never be known. What is known is that coach Billy Hunter, who took over for Weaver, ordered pitcher Dick Hall to issue an intentional walk to Al Weis and then brought in Pete Richard to pitch to pinch hitter J.C. Martin.

Martin's orders from Manager Gil Hodges were simple: Bunt and keep it down the first base line away from Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' brilliant third baseman. Martin complied on the first pitch, the ball tripping to the left of the infield grass.

Now Gaspar was running and two Orioles—Richard and catcher Elie Handrichs—were racing toward the ball, brushing against each other in the intersection of the moment.

"I called for the ball all the way," Handrichs said, "and maybe Pete did too. But with all the crowd noise, I don't know. The play was out in front of me."

It was out in front of a record crowd of 37,387 too, and they roared and shouted and cheered as Richard grabbed the ball, hurried his throw and hit Martin in the left wrist. The ball ricocheted into the first base hole while Gaspar raced home with the winning run.

Varied Response

The response to what had just happened varied:

"The ball just happened to hit J.C.," said the odd Shag. "I'm glad it did."

"I hope," said Richard, "his wrist's broken."

"I don't even know who threw the ball," said Martin. "But he made a good play because the ball had bunt spin. I knew they had no play on my job was to get to first. The ball hit me on the left wrist."

"I didn't see the play," said Gaspar. "I got a very bad jump. I thought they held the ball and we had the bases loaded. Then I saw it roll away and knew they had no way of getting me."

"I was running with him down the line," said third base coach Eddie Yost. "I think I could have beat him to the plate, I was so excited. But I stopped three-quarters of the way and watched him go the rest of the way."

Good Chance

Now the Mets have a chance to go the rest of the way today with Jerry Rothen, the second game winner, against Steve McNally. Rothen needed one out ruled help to win that one with a two-out strike the Orioles won the opener by beating Tom Seaver.

Seaver got his opportunity to get even in the fourth game and did by limiting the Orioles to six hits in a game marked by Weaver's ejection and a brief moment of tension over the flag raising ceremony because of the anti-war moratorium.

Weaver became the only manager in World Series history besides Charley Grimm of the 1935 Chicago Cubs to be given the thumb when he was thrown out by plate umpire Shag Crawford during the third inning.

Weaver was ejected after jumping out of the Baltimore dugout following a strike call on Orioles' shortstop Mark Belanger.

Veterans Lead Wings By Hawks

By The Associated Press

Two old stalwarts came through again Wednesday night to hand the Detroit Red Wings their second straight victory in the new National Hockey League season.

Gordie Howe and Frank Mahovlich both scored in the first 4 1/2 minutes of the game to shut out a 1-1 tie and move the Wings on the way to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

In other NHL action Wednesday, New York defeated Minnesota 4-3, Pittsburgh tied Philadelphia 3-3, Montreal defeated Toronto 2-1, Boston blasted Oakland 6-0 and St. Louis downed Los Angeles 4-1.

The Red Wing defense came on strong in the game as Chicago outshot Detroit 31-30. Only one of the shots got past goalie Roy Edwards to give Gilles Marotte a first-period goal.

The defense had their work cut out for them as the Red Wings were assessed eight minor penalties, four of them to former Black Hawk defenseman Matt Ravlich.

Wayne Connolly scored the first Detroit goal to tie the game at 11:00 of the first period.

The score remained deadlocked until the Wings went ahead on Mahovlich's second goal of the season at 1:37 of the final period. Howe followed with a goal less than three minutes later as Bruce MacGregor chalked up the final tally at 11:28.

The New York Rangers, ice cold for two periods, tapped temper hot and wound up with their first victory of the young National Hockey League season.

New York got hit by the Minnesota goals in the first period scored by Ron Lembecky in the first period.

Outdoor Sports

By Bob Gregg

It's doubtful if fox hunting will ever develop into a sport that many hunters will enjoy. You see it's kind of rugged for the average hunter, for one thing, and the shooting opportunities are too infrequent for most hunters' patience.

Also, the fox is virtually unfit for food, that is unless you haven't eaten for ten days or so. The pretty red fur and sleek bushy tail do make a good-looking mount, though. But to the true fox hunter, there's no more worthy adversary than the sly fox.

The fox is as cunning as many children's stories make him out to be. I have been on hunts where the fox has been completely surrounded by hunters, poised and ready for the kill, and still he slips away. Believe me, any hunter who bags a fox can be mighty proud of his kill. He's one of mother nature's smartest fur-bearing animals.

Fox hunting by yourself is usually a futile venture, unless you're a damn good caller. "Fox care little for wind or smell, and will home in on a good call," said one veteran Escanaba area fox hunter. The fox relies mostly on sight and a quick escape into any crevice or hole he can find. This sly animal is almost impossible to hunt alone.

The best method for fox hunting is to organize a small "hunt club" made up of about 10-15 persons. "With the exception of the coyote, there is no harder to earn trophy in the state," said a veteran hunter when I interviewed him. This small group of hunters divide themselves into "drivers" and "blockers" when on a hunt.

First of all, a large chunk of land is picked for the hunt. This gives the hunters a given area to hunt in, so that they're not scattered all over a field. At a signal, the "drivers," usually with the help of hounds, move through the hunting area looking for fresh fox trailings and making a lot of racket. Dogs make fox hunting more of a possible success than any other asset.

First hunter to the fox gets the chance to make the kill, so once the dogs, or a hunter, pick up the trail of a fox it's everyone running like hell.

The "blockers," on the other hand, station themselves at strategic escape points that a pursued fox might follow. Foxes on the run usually travel along fence rows, creek beds, and limbs of trees or brush. The "blockers" selection of a spot where they believe the fox will travel when being chased, as you can see, is very important.

We've got some excellent fox hunting right here in our area of the U. P., but no one seems to be taking advantage of it. "The Delta County Area has a heavy population of fox, and we would like to see more fox hunting done in our area," said Joe Vogt, district game biologist for the Department of Natural Resources. Joe told me that our area of the U. P. is considered a fox haven and a good hunter, using the right technique, should have little trouble getting a shot at the wily beast.

Fox hunters nowadays don't dress up in fancy outfits, ride horses or blow horns, but they do have a lot of fun in chasing that cunning, red, hunk of fur.

Give fox hunting a try. The least you can do is sharpen up your hunting eye for deer season.

Palmer Facing Big Challenge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer faced one of the greatest challenges of his fantastic career today when he set out in the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

It could be that his golfing future hangs in the balance. Can he come back? Now 40 and a nonwinner for more than a year, can the game's greatest attraction once again recapture the magic that made his name a household word?

Sahara could provide the answer.

Many observers thought Palmer was through when an arthritic right hip forced him out of the PGA Championship at Dayton in August. He had just struggled in with a pain-racked 82, highest round of his professional career. His game was in tatters, his age advancing and his health questionable.

But Palmer vowed he would be back. He didn't say when because at the time he didn't know. He just went home to Latrobe, Pa., for rest and treatment of the hip ailment that has plagued him for three years.

But he said he would be back — and he is.

But the question remains: will he be the dynamic, driving force that put the word "charge" in golf's dictionary, the man who won a record four Masters Championships, or will he be the pale imitation who struggled and strained over the last 12 months?

"I feel pretty good," said

Arnold Palmer

Palmer, looking relaxed and jovial. "But you never know until you get out there."

He has had practically no serious work for this tournament and only one practice round, three days ago. But he did shoot a career low 60 a few weeks ago in a casual round over the Latrobe Country Club course.

He has committed himself to the first four tournaments on the fall tour — this one and the San Francisco, Kaiser and Hawaiian opens. Those should provide at least a partial answer to the question of his comeback.

"I think I've got a few years left," Palmer said. "Life begins at 40—or at least I'm going to try to convince myself that it does."

Koosman To Get Chance To Make Boast Correct

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Koosman's astonishing pre-World Series prediction was a four-game sweep for the New York Mets.

The Mets lost the Series opener at Baltimore last Saturday, but Koosman, their strapping southpaw pitching ace, still had a chance today to make good his boast.

"Yes, I remember distinctly predicting four straight," said Koosman, who went after the Series clincher in a mound matchup against Orioles left-hander Dave McNally. "But I didn't say the first four. I just said four straight."

Koosman beat McNally 2-1 last Sunday at Baltimore, holding the Orioles hitless for six innings as the Mets squared the Series at one game apiece.

They won 5-0 Tuesday at Shea Stadium and then squeezed out a 2-1 10-inning victory Wednesday on Jerry Grote's pop fly double, pinch hitter J. C. Martin's sacrifice bunt and a throwing error by relief pitcher Pete Richert.

"I think we can beat 'em tomorrow," said Koosman, surrounded by newsmen in a corner of the surprisingly serene New York clubhouse after the Mets' third straight Series victory.

"I can't say I'm familiar with the Orioles' hitters because I've only faced them once so far. But they'll be more familiar to me than when I went out Sunday."

Koosman had a six-day lay-off before facing the Orioles the first time. He felt more confident about today's start after taking his normal three days off between assignments.

"I should have better control now, and with better control I think, I'll have better rhythm and more speed," he said.

The 25-year-old fireballer thought the brisk, sub-60 degree weather predicted for today's fifth game also would help him. "I'd much rather pitch in cold weather," he said. "I don't perspire, and I don't lose weight. If it's 50 degrees, I won't mind."

After Grote's leadoff fly ball fell safely in short left field—as Don Buford took a backward step and could not recover in time to reach it—the Orioles walked Al Weis intentionally.

Martin, making his Series debut as a pinch hitter for Seaver, then bunted up the first base line and was struck on the left wrist by Richert's throw, the ball rolling toward second base as pinch runner Rod Gaspar sped home from second.

"The ball just happened to hit J. C.," said Manager Gil Hodges. "I'm just glad it did. I thought it hit him on the leg, but I found out in the clubhouse it got him on the left wrist. It shows you how excited you can get in a World Series."

Swoboda had kept the Mets alive in the ninth with a tumbling grab of Brooks Robinson's liner to right center with one out and Oriole runners on first and third. Frank Robinson scored the tying run after the catch, which averted a possible big inning.

"It was do or die," said Swoboda, who also collected three of the Mets' 10 hits.

"If I have one chance in 1,000 to catch the ball, I'm going to try to catch it, not let the ball get through to the wall. I realized if I catch the ball I'm not going to throw anybody out. But you don't have time

Esky Harriers Score Victory

Holy Name's Paul Guenette ran the Escanaba High School cross country course in record time yesterday, but it was the Escanaba Eskymos who came out on top in a triangular meet held with the Crusaders and Rapid River.

The Eskymo runners placed second, third, fourth, seventh and ninth for a total of 25 points, while Holy Name got 43 points for second place and Rapid River finished with 61 points.

The course at Escanaba High School is 132 feet short of being two miles and Guenette ran it in 10:28.1 to break the old record of 10:28.4 set by Escanaba's Steve Gage earlier this season.

Gage finished second in yesterday's meet while teammates Bob Stone, Fred Jurmu, Marty Anderson and Dale Ford followed him in. Also running for the Eskymos yesterday were Alan Larsen, 11th place, and Larry Burkardt, 13th place.

Greg Gerou was the second Holy Name runner across the finish line, coming in fifth place, followed by Brian Tangway, eighth; Don DeGrand, 12th; and Steve Kleiman, 17th. Crusader harriers also running in the meet were Bill St. Martin and John Bedard.

Dave Holmgren finished in sixth place to pace Rapid River while Dale Pasi came in 10th, Jeff McClintch 14th, Mark Sigtrids 15th and John Denau 16th. Other Rapid River runners were Dan Safford and Mike Johnson.

The Great Northern Conference cross country run will be held on the Escanaba Cross Country Course Friday afternoon at 3:30. Schools participating will be Escanaba, Holy Name, Menominee and Kingsford.

In 1964 the St. Louis Cardinals went into the month of September 7½ games back of first place. Yet they roared to the National League pennant and a World Series victory over the New York Yankees.

Michigan Favored To Top Spartans In Grudge Game

EAST LANSING (AP)—Both coaches agree you can throw the record book out the window in advance of the Michigan-Michigan State traditional grudge football games this Saturday at Spartan Stadium.

The Wolverines, rated No. 13 in the country, are the obvious favorites.

But it is unlikely they will win by a score such as the 119-0 blanketing handed the then small, struggling agricultural school on the Red Cedar River in 1902.

The most lopsided win of the modern era was 55-0 by Michigan in 1947. That was the first game at MSU for Biggie Munn, former coach and now athletic director.

Munn more than made up for it later with a 54-9-2 won-lost-tied record—tops for any Spartan coach. This included his 28-game win streak and back-to-back 28-0 shutouts of Michigan in 1961 and 1962.

This is the 22nd consecutive sellout in the series, backing the boast at East Lansing that this is the greatest football rivalry in the nation bar none. There is plenty of proof the state Legislature takes it seriously. Several times, irate lawmakers have introduced bills asking for compulsory televising of the game.

They ran into Big Ten and NCAA regulations, however. Regional broadcasts have been allowed in some cases when the match is a sellout long in advance and does not bump heads with any other collegiate games in the area.

Closed circuit television on the MSU campus this Saturday will take care of some of the

The winner gets one-year possession of the Paul Bunyan Trophy, the inspiration of former Gov. G. Mennen Williams in 1953. This is a four-foot statue of the legendary woodsman astride a base the size of a juke box.

Michigan has been less than enthused about the trophy. One year, it was stored in a dusty supply room beneath the stands at Ann Arbor.

The trophy was kidnapped by a U of M fraternity as a prank that year, but later returned. No ransom had been offered. It will be on the sidelines at the game.

Spartan students went berserk celebrating after their first victory in the modern series. Under Munn in 1950, State won 14-7. They were a little more restrained when Munn repeated with a 25-0 win in 1951.

Student pranks always are a feature of the series and a headache to campus police.

The Spartan statue generally is given a maize and blue paint job by pre-game visitors from

Ann Arbor. Years the game is at the Michigan Stadium, forays from East Lansing students can be expected.

Police are taking special precautions this year to protect the stadium and the expensive new artificial turf. These include guards and bright lights to thwart any night raiders.

Daugherty has been practicing in strict privacy this week for the meeting with the Michigan forces headed by new coach Bo Schembechler and his versatile quarterback, Don Moorhead.

After losses to Notre Dame 42-28 and Ohio State 54-21 this is a make-or-break game for Daugherty.

Daugherty has 92 wins as head coach. There are six games left on the regular schedule. If Duffy could win them all plus the Rose Bowl it would be 99 victories in the 100th anniversary year of collegiate football.

Bing Recovers; May Play Opener

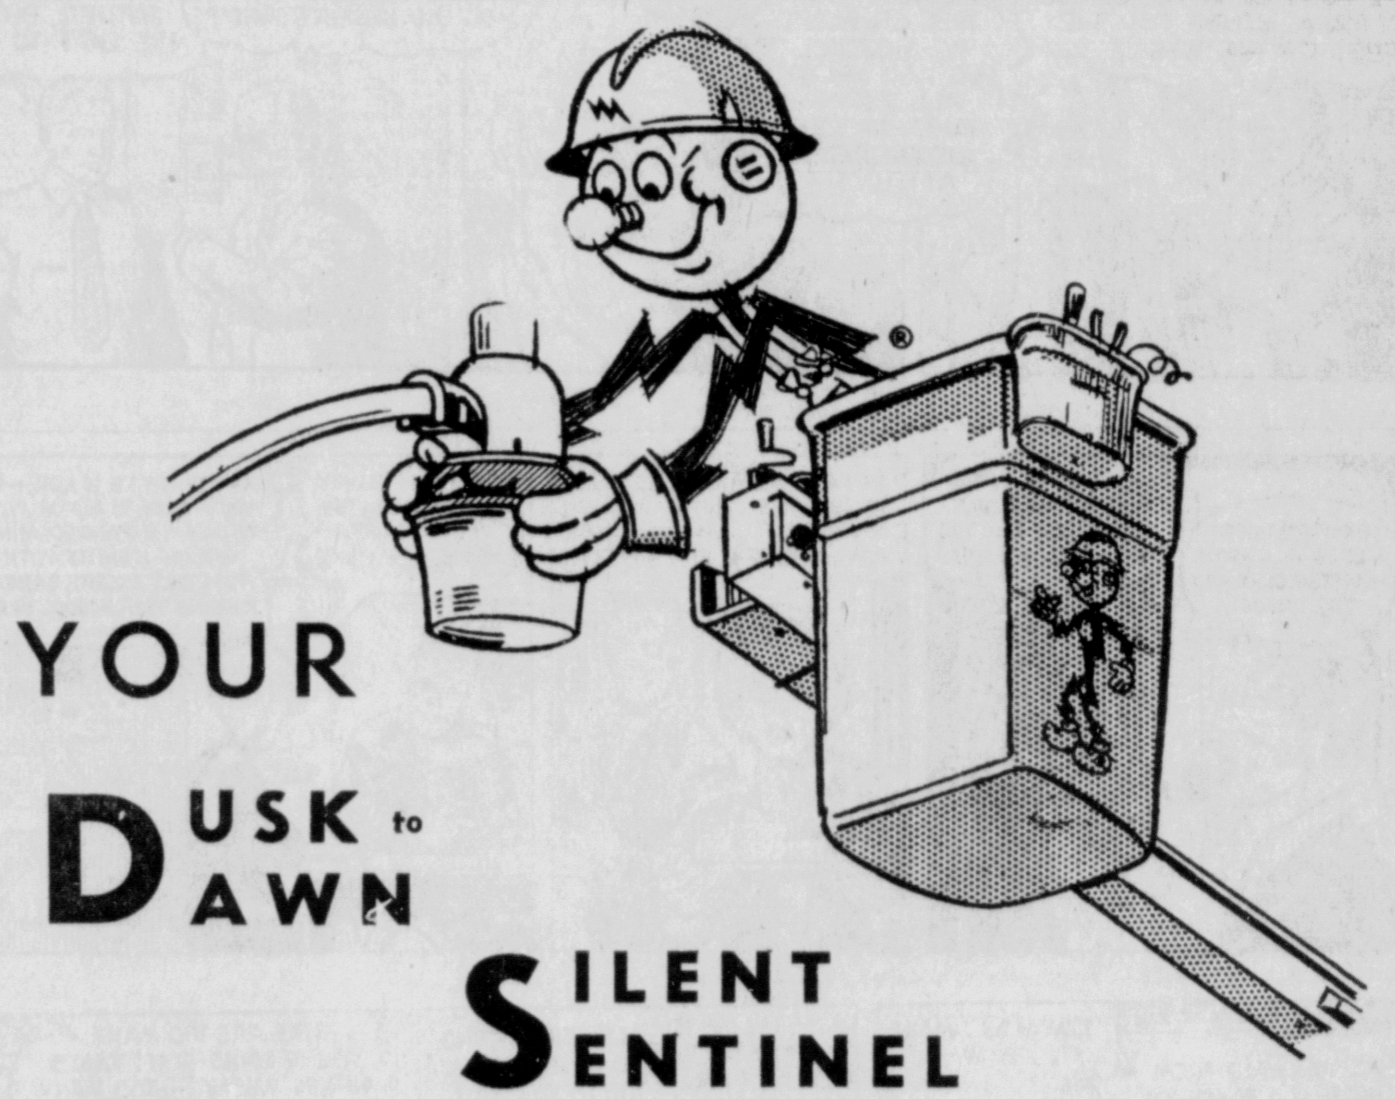

DETROIT (AP) — Dave Bing, star guard of the Detroit Pistons, has shown remarkable recovery from knee surgery and will accompany the team for its National Basketball Association season-opener in Milwaukee Saturday, the Pistons' coach says.

Bing underwent knee surgery three weeks ago for removal of bone chips left by an old fracture that failed to heal properly.

He has worked out the last two days with the Pistons, and Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff said he anticipated using him at Milwaukee, but would open with Howard Komives and Jimmy Walker at guards.

Eddie Miles and Terry Dischinger at forwards and either Walt Bellamy or Otto Moore at center against Lew Alcindor will complete the starting lineup.

Seeking to replace Steve Mix, lost to the Army, the Pistons acquired 6-foot-7 Tom Workman on waivers from Baltimore Wednesday.

Outdoor Sports

By Bob Gregg

It's doubtful if fox hunting will ever develop into a sport that many hunters will enjoy. You see it's kind of rugged for the average hunter, for one thing, and the shooting opportunities are too infrequent for most hunters' patience.

Also, the fox is virtually unfit for food, that is unless you haven't eaten for ten days or so. The pretty red fur and sleek bushy tail do make a good-looking mount, though. But to the true fox hunter, there's no more worthy adversary than the sly fox.

The fox is as cunning as many children's stories make him out to be. I have been on hunts where the fox has been completely surrounded by hunters, poised and ready for the kill, and still he slips away. Believe me, any hunter who bags a fox can be mighty proud of his kill. He's one of mother nature's smartest fur-bearing animals.

Fox hunting by yourself is usually a futile venture, unless you're a damn good caller. "Fox care little for wind or smell, and will come in on a good call," said one veteran Escanaba area fox hunter. The fox relies mostly on sight and a quick escape into any crevice or hole he can find. This sly animal is almost impossible to hunt alone.

The best method for fox hunting is to organize a small "hunt club" made up of about 10-15 persons. "With the exception of the coyote, there is no harder to earn trophy in the state," said a veteran hunter when I interviewed him. This small group of hunters divide themselves into "drivers" and "blockers" when on a hunt.

First of all, a large chunk of land is picked for the hunt. This gives the hunters a given area to hunt in, so that they're not scattered all over a field. At a signal, the "drivers," usually with the help of hounds, move through the hunting area looking for fresh fox trailings and making a lot of racket. Dogs make fox hunting more of a possible success than any other asset.

First hunter to the fox gets the chance to make the kill, so once the dogs, or a hunter, pick up the trail of a fox it's everyone running like hell.

The "blockers," on the other hand, station themselves at strategic escape points that a pursued fox might follow. Foxes on the run usually travel along fence rows, creek beds, and limbs of trees or brush. The "blockers" selection of a spot where they believe the fox will travel when being chased, as you can see, is very important.

We've got some excellent fox hunting right here in our area of the U. P., but no one seems to be taking advantage of it. "The Delta County Area has a heavy population of fox, and we would like to see more fox hunting done in our area," said Joe Vogt, district game biologist for the Department of Natural Resources. Joe told me that our area of the U. P. is considered a fox haven and a good hunter, using the right technique, should have little trouble getting a shot at the wily beast.

Fox hunters nowadays don't dress up in fancy outfits, ride horses or blow horns, but they do have a lot of fun in chasing that cunning, red, hunk of fur.

Give fox hunting a try. The least you can do is sharpen up your hunting eye for deer season.

Palmer Facing Big Challenge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer faced one of the greatest challenges of his fantastic career today when he set out in the first round of the $100,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

It could be that his golfing future hangs in the balance. Can he come back? Now 40 and a nonwinner for more than a year, can the game's greatest attraction once again recapture the magic that made his name a household word?

Sahara could provide the answer.

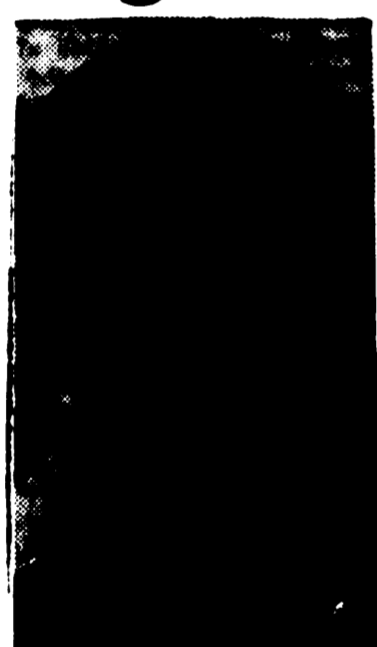

Many observers thought Palmer was through when an arthritic right hip forced him out of the PGA Championship at Dayton in August. He had just struggled in with a pair-watched 81, highest round of his professional career. His game was in tatters, his age advancing and his health questionable.

But Palmer vowed he would be back. He didn't say when because at the time he didn't know. He just went home to Latrobe, Pa., for rest and treatment of the hip ailment that has plagued him for three years.

But he said he would be back — and he is.

But the question remains: will he be the dynamic, driving force that put the word "charge" in golf's dictionary, the man who won a record four Masters Championships, or will he be the pale imitation who struggled and strained over the last 13 months?

"I feel pretty good," said

Arnold Palmer

Palmer, looking relaxed and jovial. "But you never know until you get out there."

He has had practically no serious work for this tournament and only one practice round, three days ago. But he did shoot a career low 60 a few weeks ago in a casual round over the Latrobe Country Club course.

He has committed himself to the first four tournaments on the fall tour — this one and the San Francisco, Kaiser and Hawaiian opens. Those should provide at least a partial answer to the question of his comeback.

"I think I've got a few years left," Palmer said. "Life begins at 40—or at least I'm going to try to convince myself that it does."

Koosman To Get Chance To Make Boast Correct

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Koosman's astonishing pre-World Series prediction was a four-game sweep for the New York Mets.

The Mets lost the Series opener at Baltimore last Saturday, but Koosman, their starting pitcher, still had a chance today to make good his boast.

"Yes, I remember distinctly predicting four straight," said Koosman, who went after the Series clincher in a mound matchup against Orioles left-hander Dave McNally. "But I didn't say the first four. I just said four straight."

Koosman beat McNally 2-1 last Sunday at Baltimore, holding the Orioles hitless for six innings as the Mets squared the Series at one game apiece. They won 5-0 Tuesday at Shea Stadium and then squeaked out a 2-1 10-inning victory Wednesday on Jerry Grote's pop fly double, pinch hitter J. C. Martin's sacrifice bunt and a throwing error by relief pitcher Pete Richert.

"I think we can beat 'em tomorrow," said Koosman, surrounded by newsmen in a corner of the surprisingly serene New York clubhouse after the Mets' third straight Series victory.

"I can't say I'm familiar with the Orioles' hitters because I've only faced them once so far. But they'll be more familiar to me than when I went out Sunday."

Koosman had a six-day lay-off before facing the Orioles the first time. He felt more confident about today's start after taking his normal three days off between assignments.

"I should have better control now, and with better control I think, I'll have better rhythm and more speed," he said.

The 25-year-old fireballer thought the brisk, sub-60 degree weather predicted for today's fifth game also would help him. "I'd much rather pitch in cold weather," he said. "I don't perspire, and I don't lose weight. If it's 50 degrees, I won't mind."

The Mets, caught from behind in the ninth inning Wednesday, took the heat off Tom Seaver with the help of a sensational catch by right fielder Ron Swoboda, then pushed over the winning run in the 10th.

After Grote's leadoff fly ball fell safely in short left field—as Don Buford took a backward step and could not recover in time to reach it—the Orioles walked Al Wei intentionally.

Martin, making his Series debut as a pinch hitter for Seaver, then bunted up the first base line and was struck on the left wrist by Richert's throw, the ball rolling toward second base as pinch runner Rod Gasper sped home from second.

"The ball just happened to hit J. C.," said Manager Gil Hodges. "I'm just glad I did. I thought it hit him on the leg, but I found out in the clubhouse it got him on the left wrist. It shows you how excited you can get in a World Series."

Swoboda had kept the Mets alive in the ninth with a tumbling grab of Brooks Robinson's liner to right center with one out and Oriole runners on first and third. Frank Robinson scored the tying run after the catch, which averted a possible big inning.

"It was do or die," said Swoboda, who also collected three of the Mets' 10 hits.

"If I have one chance in 1,000 to catch the ball, I'm going to try to catch it, not let the ball get through to the wall. I realized if I catch the ball I'm not going to throw anybody out. But you don't have time

Esky Harriers Score Victory

Holy Name's Paul Guenette ran the Escanaba High School cross country course in record time yesterday, but it was the Escanaba Eskymos who came out on top in a triangular meet held with the Crusaders and Rapid River.

The Eskymo runners placed second, third, fourth, seventh and ninth for a total of 25 points, while Holy Name got 43 points for second place and Rapid River finished with 61 points.

The course at Escanaba High School is 1.82 feet short of being two miles and Guenette ran it in 10:28.1 to break the old record of 10:28.4 set by Escanaba's Steve Gage earlier this season.

Gage finished second in yesterday's meet while teammates Bob Stone, Fred Jurmu, Marty Anderson and Dale Ford followed him in. Also running for the Eskymos yesterday were Alan Larson, 11th place, and Larry Burkhardt, 13th place.

Greg Gerou was the second Holy Name runner across the finish line, coming in in fifth place, followed by Brian Tangay, eighth; Don DeGrand, 12th; and Steve Kleiman, 17th. Crusader harriers also running in the meet were Bill St. Martin and John Bedard.

Dave Holmgren finished in sixth place to pace Rapid River while Dale Pasi came in 10th, Jeff McClinchy 14th, Mark Sigrids 15th and John Demu 16th. Other Rapid River runners were Dan Safford and Mike Johnson.

The Great Northern Conference cross country run will be held on the Escanaba Cross Country Course Friday afternoon at 5:30. Schools participating will be Escanaba, Holy Name, Menominee and Kingsford.

In 1964 the St. Louis Cardinals went into the month of September 7 1/2 games back of first place. Yet they roared to the National League pennant and a World Series victory over the New York Yankees.

Michigan Favored To Top Spartans In Grudge Game

EAST LANSING (AP)—Both coaches agree you can throw the record book out the window in advance of the Michigan-Michigan State traditional grudge football games this Saturday at Spartan Stadium.

Before the book goes into the wastebasket, there are some fascinating facts about this ancient series dating back to 1898.

The Wolverines, rated No. 13 in the country, are the obvious favorites.

But it is unlikely they will win by a score such as the 119-0 blanketing handed the then small, struggling agricultural school on the Red Cedar River in 1902.

The most lopsided win of the modern era was 55-0 by Michigan in 1947. That was the first game at MSU for Biggie Munn, former coach and now athletic director.

Munn more than made up for it later with a 54-0-2 won-lost-tied record-tops for any Spartan coach. This included his 28-game win streak and back-to-back 28-0 shutouts of Michigan in 1961 and 1962.

The overall series record is 37-18-5 won-lost-tied for Michigan.

Coach Duffy Daugherty has a comfortable 9-4-2 record against the Wolverines.

This is the 22nd consecutive sellout in the series, backing the boast at East Lansing that this is the greatest football rivalry in the nation bar none.

There is plenty of proof the state Legislature takes it seriously. Several times, state lawmakers have introduced bills asking for compulsory televising of the game.

They ran into Big Ten and NCAA regulations, however. Regional broadcasts have been allowed in some cases when the match is a sellout long in advance and does not bump heads with any other collegiate games in the area.

Closed circuit television on the MSU campus this Saturday will take care of some of the spillover from the 76,000-plus capacity stadium.

The winner gets one-year possession of the Paul Bunyan Trophy, the inspiration of former Gov. G. Mennen Williams in 1953. This is a four-foot statue of the legendary woodsman astride a base the size of a juke box.

Michigan has been less than enthused about the trophy. One year, it was stored in a dusty supply room beneath the stands at Ann Arbor.

The trophy was kidnapped by a U of M fraternity as a prank that year, but later returned. No ransom had been offered. It will be on the sidelines at the game.

Spartan students went berserk celebrating after their first victory in the modern series. Under Munn in 1950, State won 14-7. They were a little more restrained when Munn repeated with a 25-0 win in 1951.

Student pranks always are a feature of the series and a headache to campus police.

The Spartan statue generally is given a maize and blue paint job by pre-game visitors from

Ann Arbor. Years the game is at the Michigan Stadium, fans from East Lansing students can be expected.

Police are taking special precautions this year to protect the stadium and the expensive new artificial turf. These include guards and bright lights to thwart any night raiders.

Daugherty has been practicing in strict privacy this week for the meeting with the Michigan forces headed by new coach Bo Schembechler and his versatile quarterback, Don Moorhead.

After losses to Notre Dame 42-28 and Ohio State 54-21 this is a make-or-break game for Daugherty.

Daugherty has 92 wins as head coach. There are six games left on the regular schedule. If Duffy could win them all plus the Rose Bowl it would be 99 victories in the 100th anniversary year of collegiate football.

Highland Plans Tree Planting

Project chairman Lee Knauf announced today that there will be a tree planting session at the Highland Golf Club this coming Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m.

Knauf assured that the trees will be there and ready for planting and that a large turnout of members would be appreciated so that as many trees as possible could be planted. Knauf further asked that all men bring shovels.

Anyone able to help on Friday afternoon in the digging of the trees is asked to call Tom Bartosch, HO 6-7464, for instructions on getting to the tree plantation. All help would be appreciated.

Viking Defense Ranked On Top

NEW YORK (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings, co-leaders in the Century Division of the National Football League are all alone as the top defensive club according to league statistics released today.

The Vikings, a 9-1-0 winner over the Chicago Bears last Sunday, have allowed but 647 yards in four games. The Bears were in the runnerup spot, giving up 979 yards. However the Bears were the toughest team to pass against, with an outlay of only 486 yards in four contests.

The Dallas Cowboys, undefeated in four starts, and on top of the Central Division, are the leaders in total offense with 1,890 yards after four games. The Vikings are No. 2, with 1,455. The Cowboys top the league in rushing yardage while the Philadelphia Eagles are the production leaders in passing yardage with 555.

Defensive backs in pro football this season are being called "cornerbacks" or "safeties."

MANISTIQUE

New Salary Schedule Gets Favorable Nod

A comparison among several school districts — comparable in size and operation to Man- istique — reveals that the new administrative salary schedules adopted Monday night by the board of education are com- patible.

School board president Den- ton Nelson pointed out at Mon- day night's meeting that un- less local administrative salar- ies were in line with other area districts a turnover of top personnel would result in low- er educational standards and poor school operation.

Increases Approved

The salary increases were approved by a 4-3 vote, after a lengthy discussion, with Nel- son, Ralph Gilling, Jeanne Lar- son and Margaret Waters vot- ing in favor of the increases and Leon Wood, Robert Knoph and William Mueller opposed.

The increases cover the salar- ies of the superintendent, high school principal, business manager, Community School director, building and grounds director and office coordinator. The increases total $11,862 and cover a three year contract period, renegotiable after two years.

An index was used to deter- mine some of the salaries. This method utilizes a percentage figure which, when multiplied by the top teaching salary, will produce a reasonable ratio be- tween the two. (The "reasonable ratio" takes into consideration, in this instance, the additional time and responsibility involv- ed: 12 months work for ad- ministrative personnel vs. nine months for teaching; additional daily work hours, etc.)

For example: the top teach- ing position in the local dis- trict pays $10,300. To deter- mine a reasonable ratio for the superintendent, the index per- centage of 1.7 would produce the $17,510 to 10,300 ratio. (The $17,510 figure was adopted by the board.)

Wastewater Study Grant Goes To MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan State University has received a $450,000 grant from the Ford Foundation for research on turning domestic wastewater into water pure enough for recreation and fishing.

The funds will partially finance construction of a $1.35 million plant to process wastewater from the city of East Lansing.

It is planned to construct five artificial lakes ranging in size from five to 26 acres on 450 acres of MSU's southwest campus.

Up to 5 million gallons of treated wastewater from the East Lansing sewage treatment plants will flow through the lakes each day. Sewage solids will be screened off and organic compounds will be broken down into inorganic compounds.

These nutrients usually are dumped into a river or other body of water. The rich nutrients tend to choke the waters with weeds and algae. These, in turn, rob the waters of oxygen, killing off fish and other aquatic plants.

"Each lake except the last one will be planted with selected plants that have a high requirement for these nutrients such as phosphates and nitrates," said Dr. Niles Kevern, associate director of MSU's Institute of Water Research.

"As the water moves from one lake to another, more and more nutrients will be removed," Kevern explained. "By the time the water reaches the last lake, we would have water pure enough to be used for water sports and the production of a good fish crop."

Kevern said studies will be made of the water and the plants growing in it.

"These plants will be harvested periodically and we will study their composition and potential use for livestock forage," he said. "The water will be studied to determine its value for irrigation and to see how its quality can be improved."

DNR Vessel Conducting Survey Of Local Fishery

By BOB GREGG

The weather was cold and windy and for a landlubber like myself it took great courage and fortitude to board the Michigan Department of Natural Resources research vessel Steelhead at the ungodly hour of 7 a.m.

Aboard the Steelhead for its recent cast off from the Escanaba Yacht Harbor were Dave Johnson of Escanaba, district fish biologist for the Department, Skipper Bill Palmer, Lee Moffitt, DNR fish biologist who works on the boat, deck hands Ralph Cromwell and Charles Cutler and this reporter.

As the Steelhead passed the lighthouse at the mouth of the harbor on her way across the Bay, Moffitt told me we would be picking up two large gill nets that had been set the day before. The nets were placed in strategic positions at the request of Cliff Long, district fish biologist from Escanaba. Long requested the placement so that he could study the possible movements of coho salmon in Little Bay de Noc.

Besides doing the limited study for Long, Moffitt told the Daily Press that the ship is in the area to assess the fish populations of Little and Big Bay de Noc. "We're interested in all the fish of this area," Moffitt said. He plans to use gill nets to catch the bigger specimens, and trawl nets for the smaller fish.

Around 8:30 a.m., the crew of the Steelhead began lifting the first of two 2,400 foot strings of gill nets that were set in about 10-20 feet of water. It seemed to be getting colder.

According to Moffitt, who is in charge of the research being done, the nets are standard survey nets. "The mesh size runs from 2 1/2 to six inches with the size changing every 300 feet," he said.

The lift being picked up at this time was a net that had been placed about a half mile off the Stonington Peninsula directly across from the mouth of the Escanaba Yacht Harbor.

As the string came in on the mechanical winch, the variety of fish caught amazed everyone. Up flopped a lake trout of about nine pounds. "I didn't expect to see a lake trout in this shallow water," said Dave Johnson. Moffitt said he wasn't surprised.

After a few suckers and carp rolled into the boat the crew was surprised with a nice 8-9 pound brown trout. "That's sure a nice fish," Cutler said, and he has seen quite a few nice fish during his work on the vessel.

All in all, the first lift caught a who's who of the Great Lakes fish population. Walleye, pike, brown trout, coho, burbot, alewife, lake trout, smelt, gizzard shad, longnose and white suckers and carp made up the haul.

Following the lifting of the first net, the Steelhead bounced her way up the Bay to a spot about a mile off Peninsula Point. Here the crew experienced trouble.

The water was getting rough and the wind gauge showed a forty mile per hour breeze. "We are almost reaching the limit at which it is safe to work," said skipper Bill Palmer. He said the boat could take rougher seas, but it was very dangerous for the men to work with the heavy equipment when the water was so choppy.

As the winch that picks up the net started, the cord holding the net became taut. Something was holding the net to the bottom. At the same time, the wind started to toss the boat about. The twine what had been picked up began to fly off the winch until there was only about ten feet of cord left, and that was in the hands of the crew. They were hanging on hard to prevent the net from being lost. The excitement ended, however, when Palmer brought the boat under control and the net freed itself from the bottom.

The second lift did not bring up the game fish the first did, but it did bring up half the seaweed in Lake Michigan. "Wait till I get ahold of that Cliff Long," said one of the crew members jokingly. Long was the person who told the crew to set their net in this spot. "If he wants to put another net out here he can lift it himself," said another crewman.

The weather was kicking up a rough sea. An afternoon of trawling would have to be cancelled, and the nets had to be cleaned.

Once back at the Yacht Harbor docks, the crew began cleaning the nets and Moffitt and Johnson started their study of the fish that were taken. Facts collected by the Steelhead, together with information from other sources, provides the scientific background to expand the DNR's management programs for the Michigan waters of the Great Lakes. The early success of the coho and chinook salmon programs is a product of this new fishery management approach.

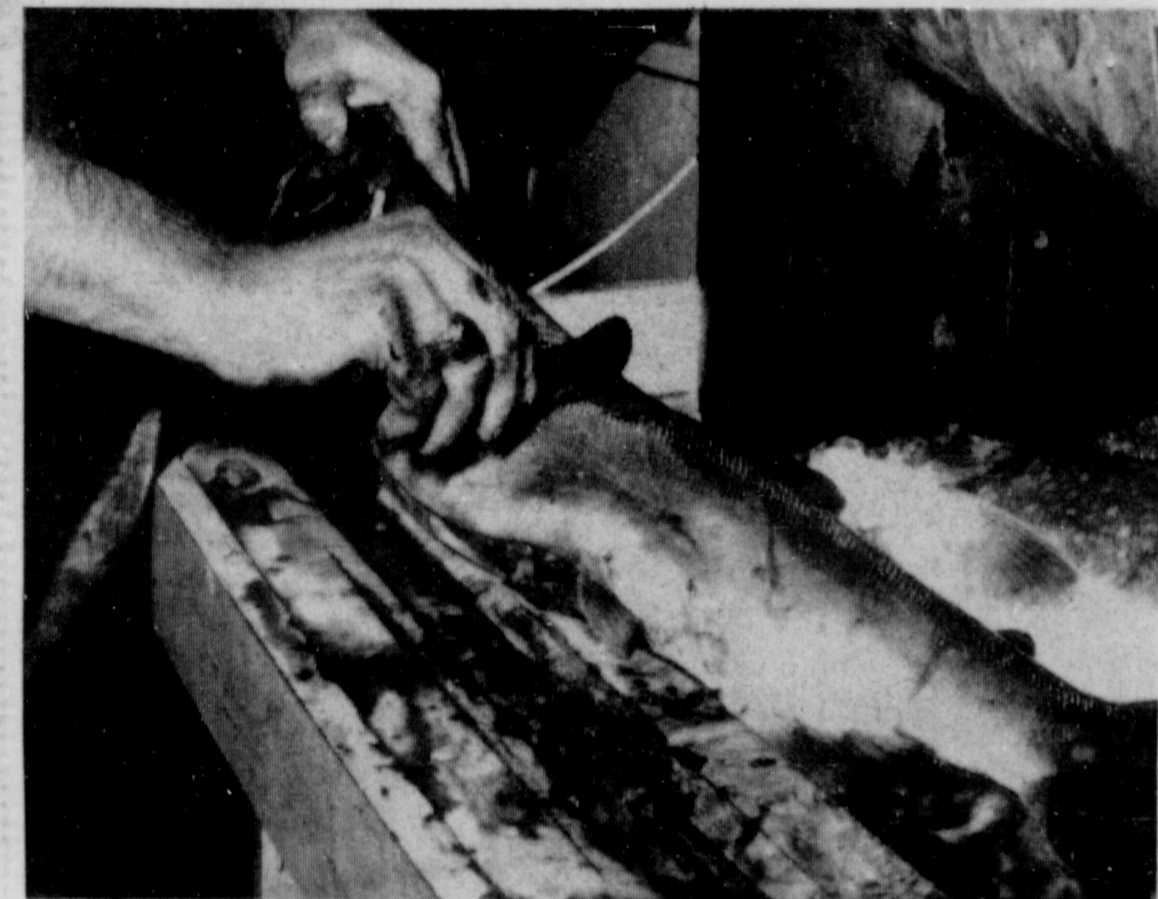

All the fish taken in the test nettings were weighed, measured, and their sex determined. The fact as to whether their stomachs had any content was also included in the study. The health of the fish was closely checked. Lamprey scars were noted, and maturity was judged. All this extensive work was done in the Steelhead's floating chemical and biological laboratory.

"We are working towards a better understanding of the Great Lakes so that we can help put them into ecological balance," Moffitt said. He said that Michigan controls 80 per cent of the waters of the Great Lakes and that we have a responsibility to carry out a dynamic program for fisheries development. Moffitt expressed a personal belief that the Steelhead would better serve as a monitoring station. "This way we would be able to set points in the Great Lakes where information of many kinds could be collected and analyzed," he said.

"Right now, we spend most of our time chasing salmon. I think we could be of more value if we did more extensive studies of all species of fish found in the Great Lakes," Moffitt said. He explained that data such as this is essential to a better understanding of the Great Lakes and its resources.

"We're only one vessel, and we've got a lot of water to cover," he said.

The Steelhead has traveled from St. Joseph on lower Lake Michigan to Marquette on Lake Superior in its pursuit of the study of Great Lakes fish. She and her crew will spend about two weeks studying Little and Big Bay de Noc waters.

A SCALE SAMPLE is carefully removed from an adult female coho salmon for further study by Department of Natural Resources biologists. The study is part of the research work being done by the DNR vessel Steelhead. The belly of the salmon has been slit open to determine its sex. The coho and the large lake trout in the background were both caught in research nets placed recently in Little Bay de Noc.

3 Americans Winners Of Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — (AP) —The 1969 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine was awarded jointly today to German-born Max Delbrueck of the California Institute of Technology, Alfred D. Hershey of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C., and Salvatore E. Luria of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The American trio of bacteriologists were honored for their discoveries concerning the replication mechanism and the genetic structure of viruses, the faculty of the Carolina Institute said.

The Nobel Prize this year carries a record cash amount of $75,000.

Money for the prizes comes from the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite. Other prizes to come: for literature Oct. 23; for economics, a new award, Oct. 27, for physics and chemistry, Oct. 30. The Nobel Peace Prize award is made in Oslo.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the world's most coveted medical distinction has gone to the United States.

Delbrueck, 63, was born in Berlin, educated at Goettingen and went to the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena on a Rockefeller grant in 1937. He became professor of biology there in 1947.

Salvatore Luria was born in Turin, Italy, in 1912. He went to the United States as a research assistant at Columbia University in New York in 1940 and has been professor of microbiology at MIT since 1959.

Alfred D. Hershey, 60, was born in Lansing, Mich., and went to the Carnegie Institution in 1950. He now heads its genetics department at Cold Springs Harbor, N.Y.

Dow Firm Aids In Making NMU Parade Float

MARQUETTE (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. has come to the aid of Northern Michigan University's homecoming float builders.

Henry M. Campbell, student government president, said he'd heard styrofoam was better than wire to work with in constructing floats and called Dow headquarters in Midland to inquire.

When Dow confirmed styrofoam was an ideal float material, Campbell asked how Northern Michigan students might get hold of some. Dow agreed to contribute a ton, worth an estimated $1,700, if students would come and get it. They did with trucks over the last weekend.

Lawyers Seek Overturn Of Hoffa Sentence

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Attorneys for Teamsters President James Hoffa, charging again that the government intentionally suppressed evidence, asked U.S. District Court today to overturn his 1964 jury-tampering conviction.

In a memorandum, Hoffa's attorneys stressed the government recording of a conversation between Ewing King, one of Hoffa's co-defendants, and Edward Grady Partin, star government witness in the jury-tampering trial.

The memorandum was filed with Judge Frank Wilson, who was ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court to review the Hoffa case and decide whether government eavesdropping was used in the conviction.

"Clearly the government intentionally and deliberately suppressed evidence at trial favorable to the defense," by not disclosing the King-Partin recording, Hoffa's attorneys said.

Defense attorneys were unaware of the existence of the 1963 King-Partin recording, Hoffa's attorneys said.

Defense attorneys were unaware of the existence of the 1963 King-Partin recording, which was made in a government-trigged auto, until last August, when it was brought out during the supreme court-ordered hearing.

Hoffa received an 8-year prison sentence which he is serving in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

Wilson has not indicated when he will rule on the case.

bilized in case of trouble but they were not needed.

The Detroit rally began with speeches at Wayne State University at a rally attended by about 5,000 persons. Many then joined a march down Woodward Avenue to Kennedy Square.

Because of scattered disturbances, many downtown offices closed early and the J. L. Hudson Co., the city's largest department store, closed three hours ahead of schedule.

At most major colleges in the state, professors were allowed to hold classes as scheduled or dismiss them for moratorium activities. Class attendance at the University of Michigan dipped below 30 per cent.

Around the state, many high school students skipped classes to join the demonstrations.

A crowd of about 3,000 students heard Western Michigan University President James Miller call for a ceasefire in Vietnam. An estimated 300 persons marched from St. Clair Community College in Port Huron to a rally where speakers denounced the war.

Day-Long Fast
About 2,000 students at Northern Michigan University in Marquette staged a day-long fast, with money saved to be donated to CARE relief to Vietnamese. Rock bands entertained throughout the day.

Prayer vigils were held in churches and religion-affiliated colleges, and special masses were celebrated by Catholics in the Archdiocese of Detroit, which covers several counties.

Fr. Clisch Named Chaplain At College

Four more priests were involved in appointments announced by the Most Rev. Bishop Charles A. Salatk, effective Oct. 21.

Fr. August Franczek, pastor of St. Michael's of Perronville, has been given sick leave.

Fr. Emmett Norden, assistant at St. Peter's Cathedral, Marquette, has been named administrator of St. Michael's, and its missions at Foster City and Northland.

Fr. John Landreville, assistant at St. Mary's, Sault Ste. Marie, succeeds Fr. Norden at St. Peter's Cathedral.

A special assignment, effective immediately, appoints Fr. Norman Clisch as chaplain of Bay de Noc community college, Escanaba — a post also held by Father Franczek. Clisch will continue as assistant at St. Thomas the Apostle, Escanaba.

Fr. Franczek has been at Perronville since July, 1968, about the same time Father Norden was assigned to the Cathedral.

Fr. Emmett M. Norden, 41, is a native of Perkins, who obtained B. A. and M. A. degrees in Education, and taught before entering the seminary. Ordained June 2, 1962, by Bishop Thomas L. Noa, he assisted in Ironwood, Ishpeming, Kingsford, Ontonagon and Negaunee, before going to Marquette. This is his first pastoral assignment.

Fr. Landreville, ordained in 1968, assisted in Lake Linden before going to the Sault last July.

Father Clisch, ordained in 1965, assisted in Menominee and Iron Mountain, and has been at St. Thomas since June, 1968.

Welfare To Payroll Aim Of President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wean people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy.

"This is not a proposal for a guaranteed minimum income," Shultz told the House Ways and Means Committee.

"Work is a major feature of this program," he said of Nixon's proposal for a family assistance minimum of $1,600 a year, with most family heads required to register for work or job training.

Shultz said a pioneer Labor Department project called the Work Incentive Program already has shown the idea will work.

The Secretary opposed demands of organized labor that the federal government become the "employer of last resort" for those who can't find jobs in the private economy.

He said Nixon's family assistance plan provides incentives both for recipients, who can keep the first $60 a week plus a graduated percentage of their earnings, and for the government, which will benefit by reduced welfare payments.

Canadians Nab Killing Suspect

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Four Canadian policemen arrested a man Wednesday they say they believe is wanted in the Sept. 21 killing of a Romeo, Mich. policeman.

Detective Sgt. Frank Christie said the man — believed to be Vernon H. Jones, 36 — put up no struggle when arrested in London and "acted like a perfect gentleman. He added the man was unarmed and had no identification.

Jones, a Walpole Island, Ont., Indian, has been sought since Sept. 21 when Patrolman Omer J. Reygaert, 36, was shot and killed.

A Romeo policeman and an official of the Macomb County prosecutor's office were to travel to London today to ascertain whether the arrested man is Jones.

No Defenders

OAK PARK (AP) — A high school assembly was canceled at Oak Park when officials said they could not find a speaker to defend the present administration's Vietnam policy.

"Someone would have to be brave to get up before such a hostile audience," said principal Ray Renbarger.

Officials See Interest Rates Heading Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration officials predicted a downward trend in interest rates and a lessening of pressure toward higher living costs by the start of the new year.

These forecasts were given to newsmen at the White House after President Nixon met with ranking Democrats and Republicans on the congressional appropriations and finance committees to pledge perseverance in anti-inflation efforts.

At almost the same time, 44 House Democrats announced they are urging Nixon to mount what they called "a genuine war on inflation."

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said he hopes the counter-inflation policies already pursued by the administration will begin to affect the price level—and thus living costs—by January.

Dr. Arthur F. Burns, another economist who serves as counselor to the President, said he foresees a downward movement in interest rates in the not too distant future.

In his meeting with the bipartisan congressional delegation, which lasted nearly two hours, Nixon threatened to veto federal pay raise legislation and also the tax reform bill should the latter threaten to increase the budget deficit.

He has contended before that both could interfere with his determination to control inflation.

In a letter to Nixon, which they made public, the Democrats suggested a series of steps be taken to broaden the battle and pledged their cooperation if the President followed through.

Briefly Told

Circuit Court jurors are reminded that they will not have to report for duty until October 29 at 9:30 a.m.

Bruce Nichols, 1217 Minnesota Ave., Gladstone, received from Escanaba city police a traffic court summons for failing to exercise due care.

Interest Low In State Tax Hike Proposal

LANSING (AP) — A member of the House Education Committee — touring the state to test public opinion on reform proposals — says he's "amazed" that people are not more interested in tax recommendations.

Gov. William Milliken proposed a five-cent-a-pack hike in the state cigarette tax, a statewide property tax and suggested an income tax increase to pay for his reform program.

"To me, the taxation proposals are the real core of education reform," said Rep. Thomas Brown, R-Lansing.

"But the discussions have centered completely on such issues as parochialism, teacher strikes and elimination of the State Board of Education."

"These are important questions," Brown said. "But I'm amazed at the apparent lack of interest in the newer and more substantive reform proposals."

Brown said he hoped those testifying at future hearings would "get more involved in the statewide property tax proposal."

"Do people think this would constitute true property tax reform?" Brown asked. "And how about the overall increases in taxes the program would cause. Will the reform program offer enough in improved efficiency and educational opportunity to offset the added cost? These are terribly important questions which have received very scant attention at our hearings."

Sex Education Guidelines On Board Agenda

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education has asked department staff to get an immediate start on modifying proposed sex education guidelines for use by local school districts.

The board said it wanted the modifications reported by Dec. 9.

Modifications reportedly would be based on testimony taken at a series of stormy public hearings on the issue as well as answers to legal and constitutional questions the state was asked to identify.

One question, sources said, involves the state law that gives parents the right to remove their children from the classroom during sex education classes. "What do you do about that if the sex education is integrated throughout the school program?" some have asked.

The board also asked the special subcommittee that drafted the proposed guidelines to meet with members at their Oct. 28-29 session.

Sewage Disposal Grant Awarded To University

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation announced Wednesday it will help finance university experiments in sewage disposal in Michigan.

A grant of $450,000 goes to Michigan State University to help build a $1.35 million "tertiary" sewage treatment plant at East Lansing.

Up to five million gallons of sewage daily will be run through five artificial lakes on 450 acres of university land. The last pond is expected to be pure enough to swim in.

The process uses various plants and animals in the ponds to simulate natural stream purification.

The foundation said most experts think present chemical and filter "secondary" sewage operations are inadequate because the effluent they dump into rivers is rich in nitrogen and phosphorous which causes excessive plant growth, robbing the water of oxygen required by fish.

House Action Due On Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional reform bill modernizing creaky legislative machinery but sidestepping demands for modification of the seniority system has been readied for House action.

The measure would lift the ban on radio-television coverage of House committee hearings, eliminate the 25-cent fee for Capitol tours, give page boys a dormitory and establish August as congressional vacation month.

But it falls far short of the reforms demanded by many members and proposed by a joint Senate-House committee last year.

Proposals for new and tighter restrictions on lobbying were abandoned, as was any attempt to weaken the grip of the seniority system on the House. And rules changes that would have cut into the power of committee chairman either were rejected or greatly watered down.

"We're political realists," said Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., chairman of the special subcommittee on reorganization that has been working on the bill since May. "We want something that can pass."

As a result, the subcommittee has produced a bill that would make some concessions to the modern era but leave most operations pretty much where they are now.

Besides recognizing television and radio as news media with a right to cover House affairs, the bill would pave the way for computers to do some of the paperwork that an ever-growing work force has had a hard time keeping up with.

"If Congress ever sinks," said Sisk at a news conference describing the bill, "it will be under the load of paper piling up here."

The bill also would expand research forces available to members and committees, and would provide for appropriating funds a year in advance to end the current time lag between budget requests and funding.

Work Stoppage At AMC Plants

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — The United Auto Workers declared a walkout today against American Motors Corp., the nation's fourth largest maker of cars.

The work stoppage involves 11,000 workers at AMC plants in Milwaukee, Kenosha and Brampton, Ont., although Brampton's 1,100 workers were not to walk out until their contract expires at midnight tonight.

Talks have been under way for months in Detroit and Racine, with the union demanding AMC bringing features of a new contract in line with pacts signed by Ford, General Motors and Chrysler.

AMC, pleading financial troubles, had said it could not match all the terms of the contracts the UAW won from the Big Three in 1967.

Dearborn Mayor Lists War Dead

By The Associated Press
Beallsville, Ohio, has sent 21 young men to Vietnam out of its total population of 450. Six have been killed; six are still there.

"There was not much said about it," Mayor Ben Gramlich said Wednesday of Vietnam Moratorium Day. "We gave the lives of six boys. We think we should back the boys now in Vietnam the same as we backed the others."

In Dearborn, Mich., which has lost 52 native sons in the Vietnam war, 400 people gathered on the City Hall steps to hear Mayor Orville Hubbard read the names of the war dead.

Hubbard said Dearborn, a city of about 120,000 has given its youths at twice the national rate. Hubbard has sponsored two citywide votes on the war: in 1968 there were 20,000 votes for an immediate cease fire and withdrawal and 16,000 supporting the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy. This reversed a 1966 vote in which the outcome was just the opposite.

Wednesday's ceremony was sober and respectful, with no public speeches. Women made up most of the crowd.

The board also asked the special subcommittee that drafted the proposed guidelines to meet with members at their Oct. 28-29 session.

Sewage Disposal Grant Awarded To University

NEW YORK (AP)—The Ford Foundation announced Wednesday it will help finance university experiments in sewage disposal in Michigan.

A grant of $450,000 goes to Michigan State University to help build a $1.35 million "tertiary" sewage treatment plant at East Lansing.

Up to five million gallons of sewage daily will be run through five artificial lakes on 450 acres of university land. The last pond is expected to be pure enough to swim in.

The process uses various plants and animals in the ponds to simulate natural stream purification.

The foundation said most experts think present chemical and filter "secondary" sewage operations are inadequate because the effluent they dump into rivers is rich in nitrogen and phosphorus which causes excessive plant growth, robbing the water of oxygen required by fish.

House Action Due On Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional reform bill modernizing creaky legislative machinery but sidestepping demands for modification of the seniority system has been readied for House action.

The measure would lift the ban on radio-television coverage of House committee hearings, eliminate the 25-cent fee for Capitol tours, give page boys a dormitory and establish August as congressional vacation month.

But it falls far short of the reforms demanded by many members and proposed by a joint Senate-House committee last year.

Proposals for new and tighter restrictions on lobbying were abandoned, as was any attempt to weaken the grip of the seniority system on the House. And rules changes that would have cut into the power of committee chairmen either were rejected or greatly watered down.

"We're political realists," said Rep. E. F. Slack, D-Calif., chairman of the special subcommittee on reorganization that has been working on the bill since May. "We want something that can pass."

As a result, the subcommittee has produced a bill that would make some concessions to the modern era but leave most operations pretty much where they are now.

Besides recognizing television and radio as news media with a right to cover House affairs, the bill would pave the way for computers to do some of the paperwork that an ever-growing work force has had a hard time keeping up with.

"If Congress ever sinks," said Slack at a news conference describing the bill, "it will be under the load of paper piling up here."

The bill also would expand research forces available to members and committees, and would provide for appropriating funds a year in advance to end the current time lag between budget requests and funding.

Work Stoppage At AMC Plants

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — The United Auto Workers declared a walkout today against American Motors Corp., the nation's fourth largest maker of cars.

The work stoppage involves 11,000 workers at AMC plants in Milwaukee, Kansas and Brampton, Ont., although Brampton's 1,100 workers were not to walk out until their contract expires at midnight tonight.

Talks have been under way for months in Detroit and Racine, with the union demanding AMC bringing features of a new contract in line with parts signed by Ford, General Motors and Chrysler.

AMC, pleading financial troubles, had said it could not match all the terms of the contracts the UAW won from the Big Three in 1967.

Dearborn Mayor Lists War Dead

By The Associated Press

Beaverville, Ohio, has sent 21 young men to Vietnam out of its total population of 450. Six have been killed; six are still there.

"There was not much said about it," Mayor Ben Green said Wednesday of Vietnam Moratorium Day. "We gave the lives of six boys. We think we should back the boys now in Vietnam the same as we backed the others."

In Dearborn, Mich., which has lost 32 native sons in the Vietnam war, 400 people gathered on the City Hall steps to hear Mayor Orville Hubbard read the names of the war dead.

Hubbard said Dearborn, a city of about 130,000 has given its youths at twice the national rate. Hubbard has sponsored two citywide votes on the war: in 1968 there were 29,000 votes for an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal and 16,000 supporting the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy. This reversed a 1965 vote in which the outcome was just the opposite.

Wednesday's ceremony was sober and respectful, with no public speeches. Women made up most of the crowd.

Lawyers Seek Overturn Of Hoffa Sentence

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Attorneys for Teamsters President James Hoffa, charging again that the government intentionally suppressed evidence, asked U.S. District Court today to overturn his 1964 jury-tampering conviction.

In a memorandum, Hoffa's attorneys stressed the government recording of a conversation between Ewing King, one of Hoffa's co-defendants, and Edward Grady Partin, star government witness in the jury-tampering trial.

The memorandum was filed with Judge Frank Wilson, who was ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court to review the Hoffa case and decide whether government eavesdropping was used in the conviction.

"Clearly the government intentionally and deliberately suppressed evidence at trial favorable to the defense," by not disclosing the King-Partin recording, Hoffa's attorneys said.

Defense attorneys were unaware of the existence of the 1963 King-Partin recording, Hoffa's attorneys said.

Defense attorneys were unaware of the existence of the 1963 King-Partin recording, which was made in a government-rigged auto, until last August, when it was brought out during the supreme court-ordered hearing.

Hoffa received an 8-year prison sentence which he is serving in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

Wilson has not indicated when he will rule on the case.

55,000 In State In Protest Fate

bilized in case of trouble but they were not needed.

The Detroit rally began with speeches at Wayne State University at a rally attended by about 5,000 persons. Many then joined a march down Woodward Avenue to Kennedy Square.

Because of scattered disturbances, many downtown offices closed early and the J. L. Hudson Co., the city's largest department store, closed three hours ahead of schedule.

At most major colleges in the state, professors were allowed to hold classes as scheduled or disband them for moratorium activities. Class attendance at the University of Michigan dipped below 30 per cent.

Around the state, many high school students skipped classes to join the demonstrations.

A crowd of about 3,000 students heard Western Michigan University President James Miller call for a ceasefire in Vietnam. An estimated 200 persons marched from St. Clair Community College in Port Huron to a rally where speakers denounced the war.

Ray-Long Fast

About 2,000 students at Northern Michigan University in Marquette staged a day-long fast, with money saved to be donated to CARE relief to Vietnamese. Rock bands entertained throughout the day.

Prayer vigils were held in churches and religious-affiliated colleges, and special masses were celebrated by Catholics in the Archdiocese of Detroit, which covers several counties.

Fr. Clisch Named Chaplain At College

Four more priests were involved in appointments announced by the Most Rev. Bishop Charles A. Seisick, effective Oct. 21.

Fr. August Franczek, pastor of St. Michael's of Perronville, has been given sick leave.

Fr. Emmett Norden, assistant at St. Peter's Cathedral, Marquette, has been named administrator of St. Michael's, and its missions at Foster City and Northland.

Fr. John Landreville, assistant at St. Mary's, Sault Ste. Marie, succeeds Fr. Norden at St. Peter's Cathedral.

A special assignment, effective immediately, appoints Fr. Norman Clisch as chaplain of Bay de Noc community college, Escanaba — a post also held by Father Franczek. Clisch will continue as assistant at St. Thomas the Apostle, Escanaba.

Fr. Franczek has been at Perronville since July, 1968, about the same time Father Norden was assigned to the Cathedral.

Fr. Emmett M. Norden, 41, is a native of Perkins, who obtained B. A. and M. A. degrees in Education, and taught before entering the seminary. Ordained June 2, 1962, by Bishop Thomas L. Noe, he assisted in Ironwood, Ishpeming, Kingsford, Ontonagon and Negaunee, before going to Marquette. This is his first pastoral assignment.

Fr. Landreville, ordained in 1968, assisted in Lake Linden before going to the Sault last July.

Father Clisch, ordained in 1965, assisted in Menominee and Iron Mountain, and has been at St. Thomas since June, 1968.

Welfare To Payroll Aim Of President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz told Congress today President Nixon's plan to wean people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls will strengthen the economy.

"This is not a proposal for a guaranteed minimum income," Shultz told the House Ways and Means Committee.

"Work is a major feature of this program," he said of Nixon's proposal for a family assistance minimum of $1,000 a year, with most family heads required to register for work or job training.

Shultz said a pioneer Labor Department project called the Work Incentive Program already has shown the idea will work.

The Secretary opposed demands of organized labor that the federal government become the "employer of last resort" for those who can't find jobs in the private economy.

He said Nixon's family assistance plan provides incentives both for recipients, who can keep the first $80 a week plus a graduated percentage of their earnings, and for the government, which will benefit by reduced welfare payments.

Canadians Nab Killing Suspect

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Four Canadian policemen arrested a man Wednesday they say they believe is wanted in the Sept. 21 killing of a Roman, Mich. policeman.

Detective Sgt. Frank Christie said the man — believed to be Vernon E. Jones, 36 — put up no struggle when arrested in London and "acted like a perfect gentleman. He added the man was unarmed and had no identification.

Jones, a Walpole Island, Ont., Indian, has been sought since Sept. 21 when Police Officer Omar J. Beysart, 38, was shot and killed.

A Roman policeman and an official of the Macomb County prosecutor's office were to travel to London today to ascertain whether the arrested man is Jones.

No Defenders

OAK PARK (AP) — A high school assembly was canceled at Oak Park, where officials said they could not find a speaker to defend the present administration's Vietnam policy.

"Someone would have to be brave to get up before such a hostile audience," said principal Ray Schneider.

Officials See Interest Rates Heading Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration officials predicted a downward trend in interest rates and a lessening of pressure toward higher living costs by the start of the new year.

These forecasts were given to newsmen at the White House after President Nixon met with ranking Democrats and Republicans on the congressional appropriations and finance committees to pledge perseverance in anti-inflation efforts.

At almost the same time, 44 House Democrats announced they are urging Nixon to mount what they called "a genuine war on inflation."

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, said he hopes the counter-inflation policies already pursued by the administration will begin to affect the price level—and thus living costs—by January.

Dr. Arthur F. Burns, another economist who serves as counselor to the President, said he foresees a downward movement in interest rates in the not too distant future.

In his meeting with the bipartisan congressional delegation, which lasted nearly two hours, Nixon threatened to veto federal pay raise legislation and also the tax reform bill should the latter threaten to increase the budget deficit.

He has contended before that both could interfere with his determination to control inflation.

In a letter to Nixon, which they made public, the Democrats suggested a series of steps be taken to broaden the battle and pledged their cooperation if the President followed through.

Briefly Told

Circuit Court jurors are reminded that they will not have to report for duty until October 30 at 9:30 a.m.

Since October 1517 Main Street, Escanaba, received from Escanaba city police a traffic sign suggesting the following to excessive bus stops.

Winners Of Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — (AP) — The 1969 Nobel Prize for physiology and medicine was awarded today to German-born Hans Dethlefsen of the California Institute of Technology, Alfred D. Barbury of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D.C., and Salvador E. Luria of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The American trio of bacteriologists were honored for their discovery concerning the replication mechanism and the genetic structure of viruses, the faculty of the Carolina Institute said.

The Nobel Prize this year carries a record cash amount of $72,000.

Money for the prizes comes from the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite. Other prizes to come: for literature Oct. 23; for economics, a new award, Oct. 27; for physics and chemistry, Oct. 30. The Nobel Peace Prize award is made in Oslo.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the world's most coveted medical distinction has gone to the United States.

Dethlefsen, 65, was born in Berlin, educated at Göttingen and went to the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena on a Rockefeller grant in 1937. He became professor of biology there in 1947.

Salvador Luria was born in Turin, Italy, in 1912. He went to the United States as a research assistant at Columbia University in New York in 1940 and has been professor of microbiology at MIT since 1950.

Alfred D. Hershey, 60, was born in Lansing, Mich., and went to the Carnegie Institution in 1950. He now heads its genetics department at Cold Springs Harbor, N.Y.

Dow Firm Aids In Making NMU Parade Float

MARQUETTE (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. has come to the aid of Northern Michigan University's homecoming float builders.

Henry M. Campbell, student government president, said he'd heard styrofoam was better than wire to work with in constructing floats and called Dow headquarters in Midland to inquire.

When Dow confirmed styrofoam was an ideal float material, Campbell asked how Northern Michigan students might get hold of some. Dow agreed to contribute a ton, worth an estimated $1,700, if students would come and get it. They did with trucks over the last weekend.
